Georgia Farm Labor Shortage Called Critical

More Lucrative Defense Jobs Attract Agricultural Workers.

By CHARLES GILMORE.
A critical shortage of farm labor in Georgia, brought on by high wages in industry and on defense projects, is causing grave concern among state agricultural officials who yesterday were searching for some plan to meet the demand for spring and summer tenant farmers.

A survey of the state showed that prevailing wages on Georgia farms average 75 cents per day, whereas in industrial and defense areas labor receives at least 30 cents an hour minimum wage. Because of this thousands of workers are leaving the soil in search of higher pay.

Solutions Offered.
County agents envisioned three possible solutions:

1. A trend already under way toward mechanization, predicting another labor crisis at the conclusion of the defense program when laborers return to the farm for work only to discover they have been supplanted by tractors and harvesters.

2. Drastic reductions of WPA rolls, with state officials pointing out that 3,000 agricultural workers have been dropped from federal relief during the past 30 days to meet the present seasonal demand on peach farms and truck farms.

3. The hope that local draft boards in rural counties will cooperate by granting occupational deferments to farm laborers. State headquarters estimated yesterday that about 365 such deferments have been granted so far.

Many Complaints.
Meanwhile, county agents and the Georgia State Employment Service reported numerous complaints from farmers unable to hire sufficient help at the 75 cents per day scale to meet the spring planting and harvesting.

Even in DeKalb county, where the prevailing wage is at a high of $1 a day, County Agent E. P. McGee reported shortages among dairy farms and general farms. He predicted increased mechanization.

R. E. Reilly Jr., statistician of the state employment bureau, and Chancellor S. V. Sanford, of the University System, started independent studies of the situation.

Reilly stated that the bureau now had 17,700 persons registered as farm laborers but that these persons were "reluctant to accept farm jobs as long as the possibility remained that they might be placed on more lucrative defense projects."

During the same week of last year, the bureau had 23,000 farm

Captain Jack Malcom Of Police Force Dies

Former Head of Traffic Bureau Was Popular Officer.

Following two years of ill health and a sudden relapse last week, Captain Jack Malcom, 52, former head of the police traffic bureau and one of the most beloved and best known men of the Atlanta police force, died yesterday at Crawford Long hospital.

Despite his ill health, Captain Malcom continued to work until March 1 when he walked into Chief Hornsby's office and calmly announced that he was going to the hospital. He entered Crawford Long hospital two days later.

Several weeks ago he underwent an operation and was thought to be well on the road to recovery, but suffered a relapse about 10 days ago. Despite the fact that his condition improved slightly, he failed to rally completely. During the night his condition became critical, and he died at 11:20 o'clock yesterday morning.

Captain Malcom was one of the most widely known and popular men in the Atlanta police service because of his friendly personality, his long service in the department, and his position of public contact.

He was intimately associated and acquainted with Atlantans of

Grand Jury's Georgia Power Is Told To Cut Wholesale Rate

Foreman in Hospital; Two Ask To Be Excused.

Several weeks of almost continuous daily sessions have taken their toll on the Fulton grand jury with the result that Thomas J. Lyon, jury foreman, is resting in Crawford W. Long hospital and two other jurors, H. T. Green and L. E. Redmond, have asked to be excused for the remainder of the March-April term.

Green and Redmond complained of the daily sessions keeping them from business duties which they said have grown more and more pressing as day followed day with no end in sight for the exhaustive probe of alleged graft in connection with wholesale granting of pardons and suspected corruption in state offices.

Seven additional names were drawn yesterday to assure replacement of Green and Redmond with Julian J. Jones Jr., serving as acting foreman of the jury in the absence of Mr. Lyon.

Those drawn were J. H. Hines, 2505 Rivers road; Wade H. Wright, 850 North avenue, N. E.; J. Hicks Lanier, 125 Palisades road; Z. J. Lee, Red Oak; R. L. Barge, 801 Myrtle street, N. E.; T. B. Hutchinson, 2280 Belvedere avenue, and J. R. Lloyd, 414 South Main street, College Park.

Rural Electrification Groups, Cities To Save $175,000.

The Georgia Public Service Commission yesterday ordered sharp reductions in electric power sold wholesale by the Georgia Power Company to rural electrification associations and municipalities in Georgia, bringing about total savings of approximately $175,000 per year.

This action was taken after a public hearing during which members of rural electrification associations protested against the present high rates. An agreement on the rates was reached during a conference between the commission and power company officials.

Walter R. McDonald, chairman of the commission, said the changes would become effective within the next 30 days.

A 20 per cent reduction was ordered in the power purchased by the rural associations. Based on last year's consumption, this would mean a saving of approximately $55,000 per year, McDonald said, although he predicted it would be more for 1941.

The revised average rate will be slightly less than 1 cent per kilowatt hour, the commissioner pointed out. This puts Georgia below the national average. When Georgia's first rate was fixed in 1937, McDonald explained, it had the lowest rate in the country, but since that time other states have made adjustments which put it well down the list.

Approximately 40 municipalities that purchase their power from the Georgia Power Company will be affected by the other revision in rates, which was about a 12 per cent reduction. McDonald estimated the saving to those municipalities affected would be around $120,000 a year. Rates affecting the Georgia Power & Light Company will be acted on later, the commissioner said.

End of Pretty Weather Seen; Rain Is Forecast

Somebody's always taking the joy out of life. And this time it isn't the Nazis or the tax collector. It's the weatherman, with a forecast for Atlanta today of increasing cloudiness probably followed by showers and with a change to cooler tonight. And after all that fine weather, too!

Temperature will range between 60 and 80 degrees before the change to cooler sets in, however. Yesterday's extremes were 59 and 79 degrees.

U.S. Releases State Pension Fund for April

Crisis in Finances Relieved After Statement by Talmadge.

Federal funds for the payment of old-age pensions and other public assistance benefits in Georgia for the month of April were released yesterday in Washington but the Social Security Board held up grants for the remaining two months of the quarter pending a thorough investigation into laws passed by the last legislature to determine if they are in conflict with regulations of the board.

Release of the federal money came soon after Governor Talmadge issued a strongly-worded statement in which he held Georgia's senators and congressmen responsible for getting Georgia's share of the funds.

The board announced the April grants for Georgia were $131,164 for the needy aged, $4,794 for the blind and $20,413 for dependent children.

Chief Issues Unsettled.
Although the board, by its action, relieved a temporary crisis by making it possible to go ahead with the April payment of pensions, it did not pass on the principal questions at issue and made it clear that the State Department of Public Welfare would be called upon to supply needed information before the May and June grants were approved.

The principal issues before the board center around the power of the Governor to discharge merit system employees and a new plan of employee compensation. Furthermore, the board did not pass on the question of whether Governor Talmadge will be allowed to publish the names of public assistance recipients. Officials explained, however, that this would not become an issue before July 1, when a federal regulation forbidding publication of the names becomes effective.

Before the time for the next federal grant, the board will seek to determine whether any new state laws or regulations are in conflict with standards set up by the board. The board is especially interested in an act passed by the last legislature empowering the Governor to fire directors and members of the county welfare boards.

One official in Washington was quoted as saying the board held up the grants for the last two months of the quarter because "a lot of things need clarification." The April grants were approved in time for this month's checks to go out on time, although it seemed for a time as if 60,000 men, women and children might go without their public assistance money.

Talmadge Blames Foes.
In his statement directed to the Georgia senators and representatives Governor Talmadge charged that the federal government was violating the law in failing to give him 30 days' notice that the funds were being held up, blamed his political opponents with punishing the aged and helpless by trying to play what he described as "dirty, filthy politics," and warned he was going to show them they could not break "old Talmadge."

Meanwhile, the State Labor Department was still looking for its quarterly grant of federal funds which have been suspended because of the 12 per cent reduction.

McDonald estimated the saving to those municipalities affected would be around $120,000 a year. Rates affecting the Georgia Power & Light Company will be acted on later, the commissioner said.

Mexican Quake Casualty List In Thousands

Half of Colima in Ruins; Mexico City Badly Damaged.

MEXICO CITY, April 15.—(AP) The City of Colima was reported half in ruins tonight with prospects of a large casualty list as the result of an earthquake that shook the southern half of Mexico today and inflicted damage estimated at $1,000,000 in fires and other destruction here in the capital.

The destruction of Colima, about 375 miles southwest of Mexico City, was reported to the government press office in wireless messages saying probably half of its 15,000 inhabitants were left homeless, injured or dead.

Damage in Mexico City was unofficially reported at $1,000,000 as fire leveled an entire city block in the industrial area. Several hours after the tremor, which rattled the city for 30 seconds and badly frightened most of its 1,754,000 people, 12 fire engines still were pumping water on the blaze.

Worst damaged of Mexico City's large structures was the $500,000 Pontiac building, where a large section of brick front eight stories high tumbled into the street and huge steel girders were twisted like paper.

People rushed into the streets as the quake rumbled like the sound of a hundred approaching freight trains, men and women kneeling on heaving sidewalks to pray while windows cracked and bricks fell around them.

Huge cracks split the sides of buildings in the business district, pieces of masonry crashing to sidewalks and streets like bombs.

The five-story Excelsior building, where the Associated Press office is located, swayed so wildly that water sloshed into the streets from storage tanks on its roof. Guadalajara, Mexico's second largest city, also reported feeling the dual shock, and Oaxaca, southeast of the capital, felt a similar tremor.

President Indicates Red Sea May See U. S. Naval Guns

Says Country Is Obligated by Law To Guard Merchantmen Outside Combat Areas; Denies Planning To Arm Cargo Ships.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(AP)—In a terse but apparently historic remark, President Roosevelt indicated today that American merchant ships carrying war supplies through the newly opened Red sea route to Egypt would have armed protection.

He was asked at a press conference whether it was the policy of this government to protect its ships wherever they go, so long as they stay out of the combat zones defined in the neutrality act. He replied that that was the law.

He did not say to what law he referred, but other officials expressed belief he meant international law which, they said, provided for the freedom of the seas. Although the President refrained from going into details about methods of protecting ships, naval men said several courses were possible if the government should decide upon them.

They mentioned actual escorts by United States naval vessels, assignment of such vessels to patrol specific areas of the seas to see that no harm comes to American merchantmen, the use of airplanes, and the arming of the merchantmen themselves.

The President had told reporters, however, that he knew of no discussion of arming merchantmen, except talk by orators. In the senate, meanwhile, Senator Tobey, Republican, New

Stimson Hints U. S. May Fight In Alien Lands

May Be Necessary To Defend Ourselves, Secretary Warns.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(AP) Secretary Stimson, one of several ranking officials to testify at congressional hearings on defense problems, strongly intimated today that it might become necessary for the United States to wage war, in its own defense, outside the Americas.

"Our forces must be prepared for the possibilities of war in many and varied terrains," he told the special senate defense committee, "it being quite uncertain in what part of North or South or Central America, or even possibly other regions, it ultimately may be necessary to use in the defense of this country and its possessions."

Hellenic Right Intact; Fighting Bitter in Egypt

British Claim Germans Beaten Back in Their Sector.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
The left and center of the re-formed Allied line in northern Greece were gravely breached last night by German troops acknowledged in Athens to have broken through an important mountain pass 50 miles inside Greece at Siatista.

(The German "panzer" forces were said to have knifed in behind the Allied Olympus line around the city of Larissa, 30 miles south of the 9,780-foot mountain and a key railroad and highway town, the United Press said.)

(At Larissa the Germans would be 110 miles deep into Greece, 90 miles down the Aegean from Nazi-held Salonika and about 40 miles from Servia, near the Vistritsa river, to which the Germans are said to have thrust.)

The Nazis, said the Greek spokesman, had "reached the western outlet" of the pass—presumably had gone through it in some force—and thus apparently they had got beyond a 6,000-foot-high mountain range into relatively open country to the south.

(Greek forces along the western end of the Allied line have carried out an "orderly withdrawal to new positions," a broadcast communique of the Greek high command said early yesterday, according to the United Press report from London.)

(The Greek communique referred to the sector of withdrawal, presumably below Monastir Pass and Florina, where German "panzer" forces have attacked in force, as western Macedonia. On the Albanian front, it was added, Italian forces were thrown back in local attacks with "serious" Fascist losses.)

The Allied right, so far as could be learned, was substantially still intact.

Nazi advances on the right-center, across the Aliakmon river north of Servia, which lies 65 miles into Greek territory, were claimed in Berlin, but this thrust appeared of relatively minor present importance, for it apparently had not carried the German forward to the point where the main British defense zone had been formed.

Although the Germans spoke

German Measles in Georgia Delays Roosevelt's Trip South

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS. Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—President Roosevelt revealed today that he may be compelled to call off his scheduled spring vacation trip to Warm Springs because of an outbreak there of German measles among the children inmates.

Mr. Roosevelt disclosed that he had planned to leave Washington last night for the Georgia health resort, but had delayed his departure after receiving reports of the measles outbreak. At his regular Tuesday afternoon press conference he told newspapermen somewhat facetiously that he was not so much concerned about his own welfare as theirs. In a further light vein, he suggested that it might not be such a popular thing just now to be caught with the German measles.

Because of the presence of the malady at Warm Springs the President said that his spring trip would probably be abandoned altogether unless the situation clears up sufficiently for him to leave before the end of this week. He is awaiting reports from the heads of the foundation before making a final decision.

Mr. Roosevelt said it was indefinite whether he would go to Staunton, Va., next month to attend the formal opening of Woodrow Wilson's birthplace, which has been restored. He said he would like to go.

242,000 Textile Employees In Dixie May Get Pay Raises

Industry Committee Recommends Minimum Wage of 37½ Cents an Hour for Cotton, Silk and Rayon Workers.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(P)—A wage increase for nearly 300,000 textiles workers, 242,000 of them in the south, was recommended today by an industry committee voting unanimously to establish a minimum wage of 37½ cents an hour for cotton, silk, rayon and allied products.

Earlier spokesmen for manufacturers and employees in the cotton garment industry recommended establishment of a 40-cent an hour minimum for workers in that industry.

The 21-man textile industry committee, by boosting the prevailing 32 1-2-cent minimum another five cents, compromised on demands of labor for a 40-cent wage floor and industry's appeal for 35 cents.

The recommendation is subject to approval by Brigadier-General Philip B. Fleming, administrator of the wage-hour act, and if he approves it may become law, after public hearings, by July.

By far the largest number of employees to be affected would be 207,000 in the cotton textile industry, 194,000 of whom are in the south and 13,000 in the north.

Other workers to be affected and their geographical distribution:

Silk and rayon: 47,000—23,000 in the south, 24,000 in the north.

Fabricated products such as towels, sheets and pillow cases, 28,000—19,000 in the south, 9,000 in the north.

Cordage and twine, 5,000—4,500 in the south, 500 in the north.

Jute, 1,500—1,000 in the south, 500 in the north.

Traffic Plan Dedication to Malcom Urged

News Week Magazine's
Editor Sends Condolences to Officer's Wife

Suggestion that Atlanta dedicate her one-way street system to Captain Jack Malcom, who died yesterday, was made by a national editor in a telegram of sympathy received yesterday.

After asking Chief Hornsby to convey his condolence to the widow, John A. Nixon, of News-week Magazine, New York, added:

"There is one thing that will always remain, I hope, in Atlanta as a monument to Captain Malcom's many years of hard labor—the one-way street system. I hope that Atlanta, with the co-operation of Roy LeCraw, will rededicate the one-way street system to Jack."

The former traffic department head had been a staunch advocate of one-way thoroughfares for Atlanta, expressing the opinion publicly and often that these held the key for easing the traffic situation here.

He had his department engineers draw up maps, after considerable surveying of the flow of cars, to indicate where the one-way streets would do the most good and he lost few occasions to push what he was convinced was a much needed traffic department.

Not until he relinquished the direction of the traffic bureau did council adopt on a large measure the system he advocated.

meritorious service for his work as head of the traffic bureau.

Captain Malcom, christened Jack Turnell Malcom, was born February 18, 1889, in Bostwick, Ga. He moved to Atlanta in his early youth, where he was a cigar salesman before joining the police department on May 13, 1913.

He was made a police lieutenant on October 30, 1929, by former Chief James L. Beavers, and it is believed that only the opposition of the late Mayor James L. Key kept him from the chief's office when that office was left vacant by the retirement of Chief Beavers in 1932. Lieutenant T. O. Sturdivant was named head of the department at that time.

Malcom was first named in charge of the traffic bureau, then in its infancy, on January 17, 1929. Because of his outstanding pioneer work in this field, he was elevated to the rank of captain on December 17, 1931, and took full charge of traffic. It was in this capacity that he did his most outstanding work for the department.

It was as head of the traffic bureau that he inaugurated the Krimel traffic schools among Atlanta officers, installed the first system of scientific accident investigation and inaugurated a program of traffic education and engineering.

At his own request and because of failing health, he was relieved of the traffic bureau command and returned to line duty in the department February 17, 1941, being assigned to the evening watch. Captain Neal Ellis was named to command the traffic bureau.

Captain Malcom, who resided at 220 Haralson avenue, is survived by his wife; a daughter, Jacquelin Turnell Malcom; three sisters, Mrs. John Hogan, Mrs. Julie A. Davis and Mrs. Mattie Bostwick, of Bostwick, Ga.; four brothers, George D., of Conyers; Thomas B., of Miami; Wilson J., of Atlanta, and J. V. Malcom, of Atlanta, and several nieces and nephews.

Witness Tells Of Reds' Hand In Big Strikes

Communist Leadership
Evident, Matthews Tells House Body.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(P)—The House Military Committee was told by a Dies committee official today that Communist leadership was evident in five major defense strikes.

J. B. Matthews, research director for the committee on un-American activities, testified that Communist influence was "very strong" in the recent Ford Motor Company strike and that the labor stoppage at the International Harvester Company was "100 per cent a Communist strike."

He also said Communists played a part in strikes at the Vultee Airplane factory and the Harvill Die-casting Company, both in California, and at the Allis-Chalmers factory in Milwaukee.

Matthews, summoned as a witness in an inquiry into defense strikes, testified at a three-hour, frequently stormy session. Some members demanded "proof" of his assertions. Others wanted to know whether he had "renounced" the views he held when, as he explained, he was a "fellow traveler" of the Communist party.

Other highlights of Matthews' testimony: The American peace mobilization is the Communist party's front for defeating the national ignate a police escort for the funeral.

Commenting on Malcom's long service, Hornsby said: "He was a faithful officer and a credit not only to the department, but to the taxpayers for whom he performed notable service. His advice and his enthusiasm will be missed by the entire department."

"We all are indebted to Captain Malcom for tackling a very difficult problem and for his pioneering in traffic," said Assistant Chief Ellis. "He laid the foundation for our present system. He was a good and courageous officer."

defense program. "It is in the American peace mobilization that you find some of the people who are running some of these strikes," Matthews said.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(P)—The railroads will shortly establish low round-trip fares for the uniformed personnel of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard.

British Sink Nazi Tanker; Pound Brest

London Admits Losing New Cruiser; Dutch Points Bombed.

LONDON, April 15.—(AP)—Britain acknowledged the loss of one of her newest cruisers tonight, but claimed destruction of a 10,000-ton tanker bound for a Nazi-occupied port and new bomb hits on near Germany's two 26,000-ton battleships Gneisenau and Scharnhorst, berthed at Brest.

The 5,450-ton cruiser Bonaventure, completed in the 1939-40 program, was sunk on convoy duty by a torpedo, the admiralty announced. The date, location and the number of casualties were not disclosed.

Commander of the Bonaventure was Captain H. J. Egerton, a navigation specialist and grandson of the first Lord Brassey. He married a sister of Mrs. Anthony Eden. During the World War Captain Egerton served with the grand fleet and was on board the Agincourt at Jutland. His fate was not made known.

Docks Bombed.
The two German battleships lying in much-bombed Brest were targets of the British bombers last night in their offensive sweep over the continent. The port was attacked four hours, during which hundreds of bombs were dropped on docks, the air ministry's communiqué said, but poor visibility precluded claims of direct hits on the warships.

Power stations at Haarlem and Leiden, in the Netherlands, and German supply ships also were said to have been bombed. The British submarine Tigris was credited with sinking a heavily laden 10,000-ton tanker, which the admiralty said was plying to a port in occupied France.

Nazis Repulsed.
Three German planes were reported destroyed and one British plane lost in air battles over the British south coast and over northern France, where British fighters flew on offensive patrol. The RAF was reported to have turned back several sizeable German formations which attempted daylight forays on England. No reports of bombings were received during the daylight hours from any British area.

The usual weekly announcement of British, Allied and merchant shipping losses was abandoned by the admiralty in favor of monthly reports.

The admiralty said monthly totals would "make it more difficult for the enemy to reduce the proportion of these losses due to submarines, airplanes, raiders and mines," and would obviate revisions caused by late reports from far-flung areas.

deseretary of war, following Stimson on the stand, told the senate committee that the Army's light and medium tanks were "superior in speed, armor and weapons to those of any other nation," and said American pursuit planes were better than Europe's best.

"Dangerous Emergency"
Stimson gravely warned the committee that the country was facing "a dangerous emergency" which may "be very prolonged." He intimated that it may become necessary to subordinate civilian needs to the military program to a greater extent than has been true of the past.

The Army's training program, he continued, contemplates a five-year period covering "many successive military units and many successive installments of men." Committee members assumed he was referring to the application of the draft.

"Thus far," he said, "the department has imposed its military program on top of the normal commercial operations of the country and to date the government has done little to subordinate the civilian needs of the country to its military program. Possibly we can improve our rates of production if we cut into those needs."

Rests With Industry.
The Army and its chief of staff had gotten the defense program into swing, he said, and "from this point forward the chief responsibility for the speedy completion of the equipment will rest with American industry."

Conceding that "inevitable" mistakes had been made as a consequence of the size of the program and pressure to get it moving, he nevertheless said "the total of these mistakes will appear quite insignificant when set against the value of the time saved and the size of the task performed."

The house naval committee hearings were devoted to receiving opinions on the bill introduced by Chairman Vinson, Democrat, Georgia, to provide for the "cooling off" period and give statutory authority to the defense mediation board, which has been operating under the authority of a presidential executive order.

Secretary Knox readily gave his approval to the "cooling off" period proposal, but warned against being rushed into restrictive legislation. "The most important ground to occupy in this crisis lies in providing an opportunity for both sides to cool off and listen to reason. This bill does that, think, and it will meet with the approval of the American people."

The secretary of the navy also expressed the opinion that there was "a considerable element in America who are trying to sabotage our national defense," and charged a "deliberate conspiracy of a small percentage of the country to delay the defense program."

But as for strikes, Knox said he would prefer to place more reliance than those who drafted the bill upon "public opinion rather than compulsory proposals," adding:

"I should like to have sufficient compulsion for an assured opportunity for discussion (of issues before a strike occurs)."

German Tank Line Smashed By Yugoslavs

Blitzkreiged Troops Recover Balance, Deal Blow to Invaders.

By LEON KAY.

SOMEWHERE IN YUGOSLAVIA, Via Berne, April 15.—(UP)—Yugoslav troops, recovering from the first reeling blows of the German blitzkreig, have stormed and recaptured the important Vardar valley town of Skopje after smashing a Nazi column of 400 tanks and 1,000 trucks, according to latest advices.

One week after the start of Germany's Balkan invasion with a terrible bombing of the ancient city of Belgrade, the situation appears to be greatly improved, according to all available information.

(Kay's dispatch, by telegraph to Belgrade and thence to Berne, Switzerland, and New York, appears to have been written on Sunday, April 13, a week after the start of the German attack.)

Wave after wave of German bombers, striking the first terrorizing German blows, swept upon Belgrade early Sunday morning on April 6 and are estimated to have killed between 2,000 and 3,000 of the city's inhabitants and laid in ruins about one-fifth of the city.

The worst destruction was in the central part of Belgrade, including the Germans' own legation and the home of United States Minister Arthur Bliss Lane, who, with his wife and staff, had a narrow escape and a harrowing experience in fleeing the city.

Three days of rain, snow and cloudy weather vastly hampered the operations of the German Luftwaffe and after the Nazi columns had thrust down through Yugoslavia to beyond Skopje.

General Milan Neditch, former war minister, was promoted to the rank of field marshal and, bidding his time until the Germans had penetrated into the treacherous, rocky gorges of central and southern Yugoslavia, he struck with heavy assaults.

Swiftly the Yugoslavs stormed and took the city of Skopje which they still hold, according to latest reports.

Yugoslavia's Croats, traditional enemies of the Serbs and their foes in the World War, have attempted Fifth Columnist putches in several towns but most of these uprisings have been easily suppressed.

All American and British subjects in Belgrade, I believe, are safe, including the staff of the Trepcia mines headed by Walter Page, of the United States Reclamation Service.

generally of the British as being in retreat, the British for their part said that there had been no activity in their sector save for several lunges by Nazi mechanized forces, all of which had been beaten back.

President Roosevelt indicated yesterday that he was not downhearted over recent British reverses.

A reporter asked whether he had any comment on the "gloomy" war news. He replied in the negative and then asked whether he looked gloomy. On the contrary, he looked more jovial than he has in a long time.

The newspaper Yeni Sabah declared yesterday that rumors Turkey is negotiating with Germany for a nonaggression pact are "a shadowy form of German propaganda."

It added: "This shows we are in a war of nerves and facing a very serious propaganda campaign. Almost always this kind of activity is followed by military attack."

"The fact that we retain a non-belligerent attitude must not be taken as a change in our policy. Turkey is never disloyal to her word. We know how to die for our honor."

The Turkish government is a nonbelligerent ally of Britain.

A wide-open battle raged back and forth through the Egyptian border village of Salum while, 80 miles to the west in the beleaguered Libyan port of Tobruk, the British announced they had staved off ferocious attacks by destroying 22 Axis planes and 15 tanks, killing at least 100 of their enemy and capturing 200 Germans.

German news agency dispatches from Sofia said that Bulgaria had broken off relations with Yugoslavia on the grounds that Yugoslav diplomats in Sofia had tried to foment a revolt. It also was charged that Yugoslav planes had killed Bulgarian women and children.

The German thrust to Siatista was accomplished after earlier occupation of the pass of Vlachoklissura, which is some 20 miles to the north, and followed the announced Nazi capture of the towns of Kozane and Ptolemais.

The Nazis leaped into a new activity against the Greeks with dual thrusts. One offensive was

Greeks Clash With British, Nazis Assert

Germans Charge Disputes Over Alleged Evacuation.

ZURICH, April 15.—(UP)—The German radio alleged tonight that "serious disturbances" had broken out between Greek and British authorities in Piraeus and British officers in charge of the purported evacuation of the British expeditionary force from Greece.

The British forces were said to have demanded that a number of Greek pilots take British troops through Greek coastal waters from Piraeus, the port of Athens, where embarking British troops were said to be under furious German aerial bombings.

The Greek harbor authorities, it was added, refused to provide the pilots "apparently on orders of their government."

Earlier the German radio had reported a British demand that the Greek navy provide warships to protect the British evacuations aboard ships leaving from Piraeus and other ports, presumably for Egypt.

The German radio also asserted that the retreat of the British forces in Greece under fierce "Stuka" dive-bombing attacks is "more and more assuming the proportions of panicky flight."

Man Under Bed Carries Off $300

A foreign accented man who came out from under a bed and said he was the thief cleaner is being hunted by city police for the theft of about $300 worth of valuables from an apartment at 678 Somerset Terrace, N. E., yesterday morning.

Mrs. Ben Friedman, the victim, told Radio Petrolmen W. G. Good and W. G. Stephens she left her apartment for a few minutes and returning noticed a bed disarranged.

Underneath the bed, she related, was a man who scrambled out and said, "Don't be alarmed, I'm the thief cleaner." Without another word he calmly walked out.

A check of her possessions showed some cash, a $100 diamond stickpin, a $50 bar pin and a $125 ring missing.

Eskimo 'Moral Code' Slayings Draw Mounties to Far North

OTTAWA, April 15.—(AP)—Royal Canadian mounted police have flown 1,000 miles north to the lonely Belcher Islands of Hudson Bay to investigate reports of three murders among Eskimos who enforce their strict moral code by killing offenders.

Fragmentary reports received here from investigators who landed on the island last week indicated the three deaths occurred during a religious dispute, and that there may be other victims, including children, in violence which has spread over the 60 square-mile island.

Five Eskimos are under arrest. A radio report, "Three Eskimos murdered last February," sent ski-equipped police by plane to the islands, where in 1920 two men whom tribesmen adjudged guilty of immorality were slain and the killers subsequently freed on condition that they support the widows and children of their victims.

Because of the spring break-up of ice, police said the plane would have to return at once and officers left behind would have to make difficult journeys by foot and dog-sled among the widely scattered Eskimo encampments.

Draft Age Limit Nazi Troops Minimum May Said Ready To Be Cut -F. D. R. Enter Spain

Reduction From 21 to 18 Being Studied by Leaders.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(UP)—A long-range program under which present age limits for selective service may be reduced from 21 to 18 and from 35 to a much lower figure is under study by congressional leaders and War Department officials, President Roosevelt revealed today.

He intimated at his press conference that there had been some discussion, too, of extending the present selective service beyond the one-year maximum, but he stated emphatically that this phase is not now under study.

General objective of the new undertaking, he said, is to require every man to give one year of his life in the service of the government when he is between the ages of 18 and the early '20's. He said this would not be attempted until after the initial demands of the armed forces have been met under the present law.

The President said that he and every other man in the nation would be better off today had all given one year of service to their government while they were young.

While he gave no hint of the future age range, Mr. Roosevelt intimated he felt the minimum age might be dropped safely to 18 and the maximum limited to those in the late '20's or early '30's. He explained that the health of many men of 35 years is not so good.

Move Expected in Attempt to Capture Gibraltar.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., April 15.—(AP)—Travelers arriving today on the liner Excambion from Lisbon said German troops were ready to march into Spain and Portugal in a thrust intended to capture Gibraltar and destroy the British fleet in the Mediterranean.

At the same time, Captain William W. Kuhne of the American Export liner said a ship which he believed to be a German freighter equipped for raiding stopped his ship a day out from Lisbon.

"They put a searchlight on us at 2 a. m. and asked us who we were and where we were going," Captain Kuhne related. "They refused to give us their identity and told us to proceed to the next main station."

Captain Kuhne could not explain the order.

The Excambion was overloaded with 190 passengers, 75 Americans and 115 aliens, including 75 Jewish refugees.

Passengers who had spent six months or more in Portugal said "every fifth person was a Gestapo agent and every fourth person was a German soldier in civilian clothes."

They said a noticeable influx of German-speaking tourists had occurred in the last two months.

Prime Minister Of Canada Off To Visit F. D. R.

Mackenzie King Won't Reveal Subjects To Be Discussed.

OTTAWA, April 15.—(AP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King left Ottawa today for Washington and what observers said would be "momentous" conversations with President Roosevelt.

King said his visit was in response to a personal invitation from the President, his acquaintance of many years.

While King declined to indicate what subjects might be discussed, informed sources said they would include further co-operation between Canada and the United States, and possibly Canadian-American exchange difficulties and the projected Great Lakes-St. Lawrence seaway.

King's private railroad car was provisioned for a week's trip. It was understood that he would go first to Washington and possibly join the President in Warm Springs, Ga., if Mr. Roosevelt spends the weekend there.

Dr. Gallup Says:*Public Against Students' Draft

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP.
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.
Copyright, 1941.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 15.—Should young men in college be excused from the draft in order to finish their college course? This question is being widely discussed in universities from coast to coast.

At present the selective service ruling is that students will not be taken from colleges during the current academic year, so that any student with a low draft number would not have to be called until June.

On the one side is the argument that the country needs college trained men for future leadership and that nothing should be allowed to interfere with this training. But on the other side is the argument that college men should not be granted any special privileges, that they should be required to make just as much sacrifice as other young men do when they give up good jobs to answer the muster roll.

The Institute has placed the controversy before the American public in a nation-wide survey.

The survey posed the question: "Should college students be permitted to finish their present college course before being drafted into the army?"

The results show an overwhelming vote in the affirmative.

YES 69%
NO 29%

Only one person in 17, on the average, was without an opinion on this issue.

A second question was asked in the survey pertaining to students who are now enrolled in engineering and medicine—specialized work which is useful both in war and in peace.

"Should students studying to be doctors and engineers be permitted to finish their present training course before being drafted into the army?"

YES 87%
NO 13%

Approximately one voter in every 10 had no opinion on this issue.

One group of educators advocates the establishment of a special Army-Navy training corps with students attending a certain number of academic courses and receiving credit along with military training.

This plan is frowned upon by the Army, which feels that all military training must be done in regular Army camps, without privilege for college men.

Hitchhiker Blamed*For Virginia Murder

LYNCHBURG, Va., April 15.—(P)—A man identified by police as Fred W. Boyce, 55-year-old retired automobile dealer of Lansdowne, Pa., was found mortally wounded on U. S. Highway 23 north of Lynchburg tonight. Officers said he apparently had been shot by a hitchhiker.

His car, a 1940 Buick sedan bearing Pennsylvania license plates ZB338, was located on a Lynchburg street about two hours later.

City Sets Limit Of 50 Years for Job Applicants

A 50-year maximum age limit for city job applicants was set with certain reservations yesterday by the city personnel board at a meeting at which two measures looking toward employment of Mrs. Bessie O'Quinn as a policewoman were turned down.

The latter action was taken mainly on a written recommendation signed by Police Chief Hornsby, who pointed out that an ordinance raising the age limit for employment of policewomen from 35 to 45 was "too high, and should be the same as for policemen, namely, 35 years of age."

In addition the board filed an adverse report on a proposed ordinance to create another policewoman's place in the department, though Hornsby in his letter said "creating a place for an additional policewoman in the department is satisfactory with me."

Under the change in the maximum age limits, the board left to Stafford W. Graydon, personnel director, the setting of maximum age limits for receiving applications for future jobs, stipulating, however, that no applicant must have passed his fifty-first birthday, but giving Graydon the right to reduce the limit if after conferences with department heads he believes a younger person must be employed to perform certain duties.

Son of Senator Smith Is Refused Deferment

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(P)—A District of Columbia draft board has refused Ellison D. Smith Jr., son of Senator Smith, Democrat, South Carolina, deferment from selective service.

Board Chairman Davis G. Arnold said Smith had asked to be placed in Class 2 on the ground he was indispensable as clerk of the Senate Agriculture Committee, of which his father is chairman. Twelve senators who are members of the committee signed a letter upholding his contention. Senator Smith was not among the signers.

Arnold said the senator's son, who is in his early twenties, had been placed in Class 1-D as a student subject to call in July. He is a second-year student in law at National University night school.

atively little, as set forth in his petition before the superior court of Bibb county at Macon. It is a mere $515 and represents only actual cash bestowed by him upon his beloved, and the gift of a car worth $65. It does not include, as the petition sets forth, "hundreds of dollars spent by him for clothes, telephone calls, telegrams, and entertainment," which he in his importunate wooing spent.

Balm for the Soul.

The balm for the soul is a tidier sum, coming in round figures to $5,000. It seeks to cure the temporary impairment to Colonel McDuff's health suffered when he became convinced her love was false, the loss of sleep, the worry, the wounded feelings, the humiliation before his friends and his numerous clients that he says he suffered when the idyllic 18-month romance came to an end.

The defendant in the case set forth in Colonel McDuff's complaint is a Mrs. Cula Coyle, of Macon, a widow of great charm.

In fact, the colonel, in describing their first meeting, grows lyrical in his description of her in even so dry a medium as a legal document.

"She was," the petition alleges, "a most attractive feminine personality, being then 41, now 43 years of age. . . . By her manner, poise and bearing she appeared to be and appealed to petitioner as being a most perfect and beautiful lady."

Thus strongly was Colonel McDuff smitten upon first meeting, a brief conversation in a downtown soda fountain.

Can't Say Mr.

Then her letter came: "Gee, I have thought many, many times of the strange feeling I had when we met. . . . John, this is a bit forward in me to address you as John, but honestly I can't say Mr. when there is no Mr. feeling in me. . . . I have thought of you every day since I saw you. . . ."

This fanned the flame. "Your petitioner became overwhelmed immediately with infatuation and love and affection for her," Colonel McDuff confessed. The letter alas, still fragrant with violet, now has become "Exhibit A."

Then came the second meeting, in Macon, at the beauty shop of the defendant, whence Colonel McDuff had rushed, hungry for a glimpse of his beloved.

"In a room alone with defendant, before petitioner had ever made the slightest gesture toward her. . . . she picked up petitioner's hand and told petitioner: 'What a soft, good-feeling hand you have.' The flame of romance became a roaring fire."

"Such a gesture and approach by such a charming lady overwhelmed your petitioner to the extent that he was instantly intoxicated with infatuation, love and affection for her, and was afraid he would the next moment be taking her into his arms."

But a McDuff never loses control in a crisis.

"Petitioner restrained himself and backed off from her," the complaint alleges.

Less Restraint.

Later, though, there was less restraint, after a period in which the ardent wooer pressed his suit. There was, finally, the first kiss.

It came, the petition sets forth, "in her beauty parlor in Macon, while sitting on a lounge, when he, being overwhelmed with love and affection for her, did kiss her about 11 o'clock a. m." But, the complaint sadly sets forth, "although he remained with her impetuously and continuously throughout the day, could not get the second kiss until about 10 p. m."

Later, though, the petition states, kisses were less far between. Visits to Atlanta were frequent. And for a period of more than a year there was idyllic bliss and perfect understanding between the two.

She Grew Cool.

Suddenly, though, the petition alleges, though Colonel McDuff's ardor remained undimmed, she grew cool. She came to Atlanta and stayed three days without his knowledge. She would offer no explanation. He persisted. She refused. Then came the cruel blow—a short, curt note on the back of a ticket he had sent her—a $1 ticket to a charity ball of the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

"If I ever want to see you again I will let you know it. I want you to stay away from my house," it said.

For Colonel McDuff it was the last straw. Not only had she spurned his love, she had kept the $2 he had sent with the ticket. And the ticket itself she had rendered useless by writing on the back of it.

He could stand no more. He sued.

Woman Taking Lilies To Congressmen Halted

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(P)

Miss Margaret Russell, who created a sensation during the lease-lend debate by donning a black robe and a death mask in the house gallery, was prevented by Capitol police today from distributing Easter lilies to representatives.

Miss Russell, who said her home is in New York city and who writes under the name of "Andra," was halted by police as she entered the house office building with several boxes of lilies. She said she had intended giving them to representatives, along with a printed pamphlet signed "Andra" relating her previous exploits and bearing a personal Easter message.

Most of the lilies, Miss Russell said, were delivered Easter Sunday to senators and representatives. The ones she brought here were intended for representatives who failed to receive them earlier by special messenger.

Civic Workers Hear Talk by Dr. Truett Here

Baptist Leader Speaks in Connection With Atlanta Revival.

"Christ or Chaos"—in the words of Lloyd George—"will be the outcome of this fateful hour, the watershed of all history," Dr. George W. Truett, past president of the Baptist World Alliance, said here yesterday as he called on an assembled crowd of more than 500 members of Atlanta's combined civic clubs to "link their lives with Christ."

"Religion alone is the factor of a civilized survival," Dr. Truett, internationally known preacher and pastor of the First Baptist church, Dallas, Texas, said before the joint civic club meeting, held for the second year in connection with the city-wide simultaneous evangelistic campaign. Dr. Truett will conduct revivals daily during this week and next each noon at the First Baptist church.

In praising Atlanta, its splendid spirit, hospitality and good will, Dr. Truett said that he was still receiving clippings from newspapers from all parts of the globe describing Atlanta during the Baptist World Alliance here two years ago.

"And it is team work, organizations such as yours, that build a city," he said, "while individuals must maintain the right ideals in the life of the city."

"Men are the supreme assets of cities, men who are endowed by God with certain inalienable rights which no one can take away, men who right civic wrong, and practice justice, love and brotherhood."

"The greatness of a city is, first, her churches, then schools, hospitals, libraries, organizations and the press. And cities such as this can turn the tide, just as 10 righteous men could have saved Sodom," Dr. Truett declared.

Declaring that the three institutions of God, the home, the state and the church, must be preserved, Dr. Truett said that the past imposed vast obligations on the present and future. "Today it is a crime for a man to be little, petty and selfish when we have to have understanding in this grave time in which, by divine providence, we are called upon to live," he declared.

"Will we do the things necessary to make a world fit to live in? Men with strong minds and great hearts, who care not for the spoils of office and do not have a lust for money, these men must openly damn demagogues. That 'America is afflicted with a bad citizenry of good men' must not be true today. Keep in mind the body politic of the country and 'link your lives with Christ,' he concluded.

Introducing the speaker, who also appeared before a joint civic meeting here last year during the evangelistic campaign, George Winship, president of the Rotary Club, described Dr. Truett's rise from a Hiawasse, Ga., high school principal to one of the foremost religious leaders of the world.

J. C. Wardlaw, president of the Kiwanis Club, president, and John Hoffman, of the Optimist Club, led the singing, with songs ranging from old barber-shop quartet favorites to "Revive Us Again" and "O How I Love Jesus."

Representing various clubs at the speakers' table were Bruce Moran, president of the Civitans; D. W. Medlock, of the Kirkwood Civitan; Morgan Blake, vice president of the Optimists; Dr. W. L. Curtis, of the Airport Kiwanis; Paul White, of the West End Civitan, and several members of the Lions and Exchange Clubs.

Visiting ministers included Dr. Roland Q. Leavell, superintendent of evangelism, of the Baptist Home Mission Board; Dr. Ryland Knight, pastor of the Second Ponce de Leon Baptist church; Commander William C. Arnold, of the Salvation Army; the Rev. Paul Meigs, of the Central Baptist church; Dr. A. D. Kinnett, noted evangelist, of the Episcopal church; the Rev. F. M. Davis, Cascade Baptist church; Dr. T. P. Tribble, New Antioch Baptist church; the Rev. P. W. Tribble, Cumming Baptist church; the Rev. Ted Morrison, Episcopal Church of the Incarnation; Dr. Kyle Yates, Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky.; the Rev. J. M. Walker, St. Luke's Episcopal church; the Rev. Nat Long, Glenn Memorial Methodist church, and army chaplains from Fort Benning.

Revival Efforts Of Methodists Bearing Fruit

Large Crowd Greeted Bishop Moore at Noon Services.

By DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT.
Old-time Methodist revival memories were awakened yesterday at the First Methodist church noonday meeting, when Bishop Arthur J. Moore preached on the theme of "God's Redeeming Love," and pointed out to his vast audience that, if they would have Jesus Christ as the pattern of their heavenly life hereafter, they must have Him for the pattern of their life in this world. Numerous commendatory "Amen's" were heard from different sections of the congregation, and scores of eyes were dampened with tears. Today at the noon meeting Bishop Moore will preach on the subject, "The Heroism of Christianity."

Dr. Harry Denman preached to a group of 142 businessmen at the noon hour, on the 11th floor of the 101 Marietta Street building. At 1 o'clock he addressed the theology students of Emory University. At noon today Dr. Denman will preach to the men at the Southern railway shops on Windsor street; at 3:45 o'clock this afternoon he will preach to the police station, and tomorrow at noon he will preach on Plaza way.

Attendance at the First church noonday meeting was larger by several hundred yesterday than it was the first day, with indications that standing room will be in demand before the week is over. Each day following the preaching service all Methodist ministers assemble for luncheon at the Imperial hotel. Invitation is given out-of-town visiting Methodist ministers to arrange to be at the luncheon when they are in the city.

Further Reports
Further reports from pastors in the Atlanta districts, as made yesterday, bring the number of accessions into Methodist churches well over the 800 mark. Reports have not as yet been received from a score of Atlanta district churches.

The Rev. N. O. L. Powell, of the Sandy Springs church, reports that his people are rejoicing over the successful effort being made to relieve the church of all indebtedness. He says $4,500 has been raised for that purpose. The Rev. G. C. Powell, of the Florida church, is helping his brother pastor at Sandy Springs church, where crowds larger than camp meeting crowds are in attendance at the services.

The Rev. George W. Barrett, of the Underwood Memorial church, states that his congregation this week has paid $850 on the church debt.

The Rev. H. C. Stratton, of Capitol View Methodist church, says his people last Sunday started off their revival by placing $5,000 on the church debt.

Georgia Farm Labor Shortage Called Critical

laborers registered as desirous of work. Marion A. O'Connor, director of the employment service, estimated that there was a 25 per cent shortage in farm labor. That is, for every four men now employed, another was needed.

The Southern Iron & Equipment Company, distributors of Ford farm machinery in Georgia, said its sales were up 70 per cent over last year and attributed the gain to the exodus of farm labor. Officials of the company also foresaw a "condition more serious than most people realize" after the demands of industry and defense have been satisfied and labor begins to flow back to the rural areas, mechanized in the meantime.

The Georgia branch of the International Harvester Company reported increased business of "at least 20 per cent" over last year, and officials added that more machinery could be sold in the state if it were not for the shortage of materials.

Georgia Commissioner of Agriculture Tom Linder defended farmers for their wage scale and said it was low because "like any other business, it has to pay what it can afford."

Described as the lowest in the nation, along with South Carolina, Georgia's farm wage scale compares in this way with other states: National average, $1.70 per day; highest wages, $3. per day paid in Rhode Island and Connecticut.

The Georgia Crop Reporting Service stated yesterday that there were only 76 workers for every 100 jobs on Georgia farms, and added that this was the lowest figure on record since 1926.

State WPA headquarters said that large numbers of agriculture workers, carried on the roles over the winter, are discharged in the spring for farm work. The 3,000 dropped last month are a little more than 8 per cent of the total WPA role in the state.

However, officials said it could not be determined whether or not those workers went back to farms or succeeded in placing themselves on lucrative defense projects or in industry.

WPA added that any farmer desiring tenants or wishing to give employment could get help through the WPA. Any WPA worker discovered refusing a job in his field is automatically dropped.

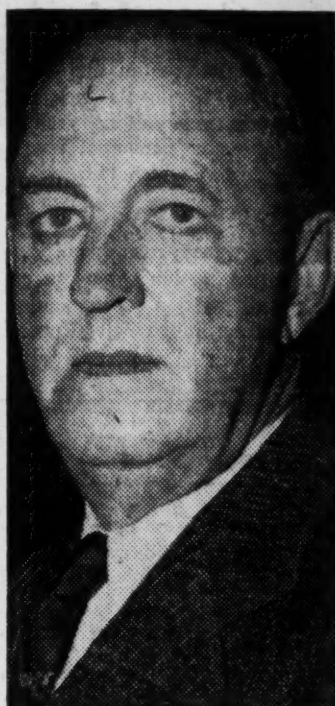

Operators of plant farms, dairy-men and peach men are particularly in need of help, it was pointed out. Many farmers reported that the draft was depleting them of trained men, especially in the dairy industry.

The draft was mentioned several times in DeKalb county, the leading dairy county of the southeast, as a cause of labor loss.

Other southern states also were quoted as needing farm laborers. In Tennessee tenants and sharecroppers are badly needed. Strawberry growers of Louisiana are unable to find enough pickers. A shortage of labor is feared in Mississippi, nearing its early harvest season.

In Georgia particularly the Crop Reporting Service said: "Most of the labor shortage has developed around Army camps and centers of industrial activity and a general shortage is reported on farms everywhere in Georgia. Sawmilling in the central section of the state has created a farm labor problem in that area."

"Crop planning will be affected to some extent by labor shortage on farms and may cause many farmers to introduce additional machinery in order to offset the shortage of labor. However, the shortage of credit to buy such equipment will prevent any drastic change in this respect."

the table, as a first down payment on a three-story granite structure for religious education work. He says the structure will be erected on the pay-as-you-go plan.

The Rev. John Tate, of College Park Methodist church, and Dr. N. C. McPherson Jr., of the Peachtree Road Methodist church, report the largest number of accessions on Easter Sunday. More than 65 new members were received at each church. The Rev. Pierce Harris, of the First Methodist church, reports 131 accessions since his coming here.

Interesting Experience.
The Rev. George King, of Mount Zion church, had the interesting experience last Sunday of receiving into the church a mother and her three daughters, while Dr. Walt Holcomb, at Wesley Memorial church, baptized a mother and her baby at the same service, and received the mother into the church.

The Rev. N. P. Manning, of the Inman Park church, smilingly told of how his wife wore an orchid Easter Sunday. He then related the impressive story of how she came to have the orchid. Out of gratitude to her for leading him out of atheism, a converted man presented her with the orchid corsage.

The Rev. S. D. Cherry, of the Stewart Avenue Methodist church, related the story of a man who, long tormented by drink, came to the pastor two weeks ago, gritting his teeth and ringing his hands as he begged for help in getting release from his besetting sin. The man was led to faith, and was baptized by Rev. Cherry last Sunday, and received into the church membership.

Practically every one of the Methodist churches in the Atlanta districts have just concluded meetings, or are in process of revivals at this time in connection with the Greater Atlanta simultaneous evangelistic campaign. The special revival efforts will continue through April 27.

Baptists Start Noon Sessions At Church Here

Dr. Leavell Speaks on Evangelism; Dr. Truett To Talk Today.

"Our country must be brought back to humility and surrender to God if we are spared," declared Dr. Roland Q. Leavell at the noonday meeting of the Greater Atlanta Baptist Evangelistic campaign yesterday at the First Baptist church. Dr. Leavell, superintendent of evangelism of the home mission board, Southern Baptist Convention, was speaking on the subject: "This Big Business of Evangelism."

Dr. Leavell was speaking at the First Baptist church in the first of the noon-day meetings to be held daily this week and next under the leadership of the Baptist forces. Dr. George W. Truett, of Dallas, Tex., will be the speaker today and each day hereafter.

Dr. Leavell reported that there were nearly 60 Baptist pastors, evangelists and musical directors at the breakfast at the Biltmore hotel yesterday. Breakfasts will be held four days this week and four days next week, when the ministers will enjoy the fellowship, plan the work of the days, discuss methods of evangelism, and pray together. The subject for the breakfast discussion today is "A Pastor's Personal Program for Personal Soul-Winning."

The evangelist declared that it is easily within the possibility of the Baptist churches in this campaign to win not less than 3,000 new converts during the next two weeks.

Pardon Condition

Upheld by Court

The Governor of Georgia has a right to grant a conditional pardon, the state supreme court held yesterday in the habeas corpus proceeding brought against Sheriff Mott Aldridge, of Fulton county, by Walter Huff, alias Jack O'Shields.

In its decision, the court said: "The authority to pardon conferred on the Governor by the constitution includes the power to attach any condition precedent or subsequent, which is not illegal, immoral or impossible of performance."

Numerous conditional pardons were granted during the administration of former Governor Rivers, but Governor Talmadge has taken the position that a conditional pardon does not exist.

2,000 Expected at Baptist Convention

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
LAGRANGE, Ga., April 15.—More than 2,000 visitors are expected in LaGrange to attend the Georgia Baptist convention for 1941, when it meets here April 22-24, with the First Baptist church as host.

Scheduled to speak are nationally known religious leaders, including Dr. Daniel L. Poling, pastor of the Temple Baptist church, in Philadelphia; Dr. John L. Hill, book editor of the Sunday school board, in Nashville, Tenn.; Dr. W. F. Powell, president of the Baptist Sunday school board, of Nashville; Dr. Prince E. Burroughs, educational secretary of the Sunday school board; Andrew Allen, Miss Mary Virginia Lee, Miss Alene Bryan, secretaries of various departments of the board.

The sessions of the convention will be directed by Dr. R. C. Gresham, of Moultrie, president, assisted by A. J. Judson Burrell, of Millen; Mrs. Walter E. Johnson, of Athens; J. H. Hawkins, of Marietta; the Rev. W. M. Marshall Jr., of LaGrange, vice presidents, and

Dr. A. T. Cline, of Toccoa, secretary and treasurer.
Dr. Willis E. Howard is the pastor of the host church. He announces the following local committee chairmen: Eugene Baker, in charge of arrangements; John S. Dodd, finance; Mrs. L. D. Allen, securing homes for visitors; W. H. Milam, barbecues; J. G. Gallant, Boy Scout escorts; Miss Marjorie Huff, registration; Miss Eleanor Orr, publicity. Local Girl Scouts will serve as pages.

Temperatures Hit 90s In the Atlantic States

By The Associated Press.
Clear skies and a hot sun sent temperatures in the Atlantic states yesterday upward into the nineties in at least three cities. Philadelphia and Raleigh both reported highs of 91, and Washington reported a high of 90.

State Highway Petty Accounts Total $130,000

Thrasher Audits 'Penny' Accounts; 2,274 Small Items on List.

The financial condition of the State Highway Department was even more grave yesterday as State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr. certified a list of "penny" accounts to Governor Talmadge ranging from 15 cents to slightly less than $500 and totaling $130,257.11.

Debits of more than $8,000,000 already have been audited and sent to the Governor.

Included in the list of 2,274

small accounts were many debts of less than $1 which would have gone unpaid over a period of months. There were numerous items of 65, 75 and 80 cents. The highway debts were audited to determine which were legitimate. They either will be paid or certificates will be issued for them.

Talmadge Hits At Delegation In Statement

Georgia Group in Washington Held Responsible for Funds.

Following is a statement issued yesterday by Governor Talmadge holding Georgia's senators and representatives responsible for getting federal welfare funds released to the state:

For the past four years there has been quite a controversy in Georgia over old age pensions and other benefits, such as aid to the blind, and aid to dependent children.

The overhead cost of this department has been too much, especially the state overhead.

There are thousands of people who have been declared eligible to receive the old age pension who have never received a dime. There are thousands more who have received over $20 per month. There are thousands more who have been put on the pension rolls just before an election for about two or three months and then removed.

Since I went into office as Governor we have been diligently working to cut down the overhead cost so that we could pay more pensions. We have succeeded in getting more on the list to receive money, but not all who are eligible.

Publication Best.

I know that the best thing that can be done about this old age pension would be to publish the names of the beneficiaries. Then the local committee would know if an injustice had been done with the pension money.

This week it came out in the press that the old age pension funds would be delayed or held up by the federal government. They are violating the law, because there is a provision that they must give 30 days' notice to the Governor of the state before they can hold up the funds due the state.

Do you know where the nigger in the woodpile is? I will tell you.

Our political enemies know that I am going to run this pension business fairly and just, and eliminate overhead cost as far as possible. Our political opponents know that I am going to publish names of the parties who receive state money.

These political opponents of ours are shrewd enough to know that in the end this course will be the course that the people of Georgia approve. They are willing to punish these old, helpless people, these cripples, these blind, to try to play their dirty, filthy politics.

A CHALLENGE.

They are laughing up their sleeves now, and saying, "We'll break old Talmadge. We will not let out the old age pension money to the people of Georgia like he told them."

Well, let's see how far they will break old Talmadge. Talmadge was elected Governor of Georgia to administer the money in Georgia is handled according to law, and this tax money of Georgia includes any federal funds or participation that is sent to this state.

My job is to run Georgia fairly and right after it comes to Georgia.

Whose job is it to see that that money comes to Georgia just as it goes to other states?

Here is the list of those on whom this responsibility rests:

Senator Walter F. George, Senator Paul B. Russell, Congressman Albert S. Camp, Congressman E. E. Cox, Congressman John S. Gibson, Congressman Stephen Pace, Congressman Hugh Peterson, Congressman M. C. Tamm, Congressman Robert Ramspeck, Congressman Carl Vinson, Congressman B. Frank Wheeler.

I am satisfied that the Georgia delegation in Congress is going to see to it that Georgia is not discriminated against.

DELEGATION ASSURES AID IN GETTING FUNDS

By CLAUDE WILKINS, Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 15. Georgia's congressional delegation preferred generally today not to comment on Governor Talmadge's statement regarding the release of federal funds to Georgia until they have been apprised of the nature of the controversy more fully.

Representative Vinson, of Millersville, dean of the state's congressional group, summed up the attitude of the delegation somewhat when he said:

"Naturally the Georgia delegation in Congress are willing and anxious to co-operate in every way possible to see that the state gets the social security funds it is entitled to. I have not been informed by Governor Talmadge or other members of the delegation of the nature of the controversy that seems to have arisen and I suggest that the Governor write us of the problem. All of us, I am sure, will be found ready to do everything necessary to see that the funds are released to the state."

Representative Cox, of Camilla, a high-ranking majority member of the Rules Committee and an infrequent critic of the administration, said that he was supporting Governor Talmadge's demands for release of the funds wholeheartedly.

"I am supporting Governor Talmadge in his demand that there be no federal discrimination against Georgia. I have no quarrel to make with his statement. I am tired of Washington trying to control state legislation."

Representatives Ramspeck of Atlanta, Brown of Elberton, and Wheeler of Gainesville all pledged themselves to aid in any way in untangling the snarl arising from the new state law.

Senator Russell was likewise out of the city, but Senator George commented as follows:

"I have no notice of the social security matter and am wholly unfamiliar with the reasons for the action taken today by the board, but I am, of course, willing to co-operate in seeing that the money is released to the state."

Frenchmen Are Denied Right To Eat Potatoes

VICHY, France, April 15.—(AP) Jean Achard, secretary of food supply, forbade the eating of potatoes in unoccupied France today in order to meet the need for seed potatoes.

He explained that the usual 190,000-ton seed potato requirements had been quadrupled this year and said the former supplies from Holland, Brittany and Germany could not be had because of lack of transportation.

Former Solon Questioned in Pardon Probe

Clemency Obtained for Convict 'In 10 Minutes,' Lawyers Charge.

Stonewall Dyer, Newnan attorney and former member of the Georgia house of representatives, was called by the Fulton grand jury yesterday to explain how he allegedly was able to obtain pardons in matters of minutes while other lawyers failed completely.

Acting upon testimony of two Atlanta lawyers, who claimed Dyer obtained a pardon for a convict "in 10 minutes" after they had exhausted every source of executive clemency, the jury yesterday questioned the Newnan attorney for two hours.

The local attorneys, whose names the grand jurors declined to make public, told the jury they worked for months attempting to obtain a pardon for a convict listed as Carl Weeks, who had posted $250 in escrow for any person able to obtain his freedom from a 10-year sentence imposed in 1939 for safe robbery.

Dyer, according to the testimony, was asked if he could assist in getting the pardon for Weeks, whose criminal record covers several sheets of paper at police headquarters. According to testimony as related by Solicitor General Boykin, Dyer required "just about 10 minutes with Governor Rivers before he came out with the signed pardon."

Dyer, it was said, admitted receiving the $250 fee for obtaining the pardons but gave no explanation beyond that statement, as far as could be learned.

City officials yesterday, including Judge A. W. Callaway, of recorder's court; City Councilmen G. Dan Bridges, Howard Haire and James E. Jackson, Chief of Police M. A. Hornsby and several dozen members of the police force, took turns appearing before the grand jury.

The city officers were called to explain why 171 persons were fined in recorder's court since January 1 on lottery charges with but a handful of that number turned over to state courts for prosecution under state lottery laws.

Judge Callaway, the council members and police heads gave the jury assurance of full co-operation on all future lottery arrests, promising to preserve all evidence and confer with County Prosecutor Bond Almond to determine if evidence is considered sufficient for conviction.

It was pointed out to city heads that at least five of the lottery fines assessed since the first of this year were on persons granted pardons, conditional upon good behavior.

County authorities claim evidence in such cases has been destroyed. However, it appeared likely yesterday action would be instituted to have such conditional pardons revoked where evidence is conclusive that good behavior terms have been violated.

Four Men Die In Gun Battle At Coal Fields

President and Vice President of Company Among Dead.

By The Associated Press.

The president of a coal company, the vice president of the same firm, a miner and a former Tennessee highway patrolman were slain in a gun battle in the Kentucky coal fields yesterday, bringing to nine the number of violent deaths in that area during the current work stoppage in the soft coal mines.

The killings set a new high for the number of fatalities in this southeastern Kentucky section during any single phase of the off-recurring and off-bloody troubles arising from labor difficulties.

Details were lacking, but Patrolman Guy Harrell, of Middlesboro, Ky., said the fighting took place near Middlesboro, close to the Tennessee line. Bullets sprayed a road leading to the Fork Ridge Coal Company mine. The mine has remained in operation during the negotiations for a new contract between the CIO United Mine Workers and the bituminous operators of the eight-state Appalachian region.

20 Are Wounded.

The dead were: C. W. Rhodes, 45, president of the Fork Ridge Company and of the American Association, a combination of soft coal mining interests; E. W. Silvers, vice president and treasurer of the coal company; Sam Evans, a miner, and Bob Robinson, Tazewell, Tenn., a former Tennessee highway patrolman. Some other 20 others were reported wounded.

Harrell said the shooting, which occurred about 2 a. m., had followed a concentration of miners. Union men have tried to stop operations of all mines in the area during the contract negotiations. Middlesboro is in Bell county, which adjoins Harlan county.

Representatives of the southern soft coal operators were reported in Washington to have rejected a request of Secretary Perkins that they return to New York for the Appalachian wage negotiations. They withdrew from the conference Friday after disagreeing with the northern operators over north-south wage differentials.

Miss Perkins made her request to a committee of southern operators after meeting with the northern operators in New York. The southerners formed a wage conference of their own in Washington Tuesday.

Metal Plant Closes.

The CIO Steel Workers' organizing committee scheduled a conference for today with officials of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation in an effort to extend current wage increases to the 24,000 workers of that company. The United States Steel Corporation and other large steel producers have granted 10 cents an hour raises in new contracts with the SWOC.

French & Hecht, Inc., a metal wheel manufacturing concern, of Springfield, Ohio, announced the closing of its plant to avoid violence. Eighty moulder, on strike since Friday, are demanding pay increases and recognition of the AFL International Moulders' Union.

Several hundred women members of an AFL local went on strike against the Appalachian Mills, manufacturer of Army clothing.

They said the walkout was prompted by dismissal of three women following a controversy over "general plant conditions."

Five More Steel Firms Give Raises

PITTSBURGH, April 15.—(AP)—Five additional steel companies today followed the lead of larger producers in granting 10 cents an hour wage increases as the CIO moved to obtain higher pay for the remainder of the nation's 600,000 steel workers.

The latest to grant the increase were the Wheeling Steel Corporation, which has 26,000 workers in Ohio and West Virginia plants; the Allegheny Ludlum Steel Corporation, which employs about 8,000 in Pennsylvania and New York mills; the Pittsburgh Steel Corporation, with 6,000 workers at Monessen and Allentown, Pa.; the Copperweld Steel Company, employing 2,400 at Glassport, Pa., and Warren, Ohio, and the American Rolling Mill Company.

Allegheny Ludlum also granted a 10 per cent pay raise for its salary workers earning $10,000 yearly or less.

Show Us the Way

Individually all men, throughout their lives, need spiritual guidance. Without faith in a purpose behind this earthly pilgrimage no man could find any meaning for the things he does, the hopes he holds or the dreams he dreams.

Collectively, however, it is to be doubted if any people were ever in greater need of a finger which shall point to the proper road of destiny than are the American people today.

The civilized world, as we have known it, is in flux. Things and ideals we thought imperishable are being crushed out of all semblance beneath the caterpillar treads of armed, mechanized force. It seems almost as though the civilization of the twentieth century is dying, even as died the civilization that was ancient Greece and ancient Rome.

America has spoken and has made her choice. Through the words of the nation's leader, President Roosevelt, and through the supporting votes of the congress this country has declared itself as on the side of the democracies which are now engaged in a desperate last-ditch fight against dictatorship that would rule the world.

Such a course is the only one possible for a nation founded on the grandest concept of human freedom man has yet formed. Such a course is the only one possible for a nation which, through more than 150 years, has held high the standard of human liberty and individual dignity for the inspiration of a world. Any other course would be violative of all the honor and all the ideals from which America was born. Any other course would be unthinkable.

Yet it is undoubtedly true that the nation as a whole, the nation composed of 130,000,000 individual souls, is not yet fully awake to the peril that looms ever darker, nor completely aware of the task which must be done, sooner or later. Psychologically public opinion has not yet crystallized, as it must, to the need for utmost sacrifice for the cause of freedom, even though that sacrifice calls not only for our individual wealth, but for individual life, too. We have not yet reached that stage of realization which animated the founders who wrote that pledge of "our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor," for the free America they had espoused.

Only through an awakening of the spirit can America refine her soul. Only thus can this nation awake from the lethargy that easy prosperity has caused, can forget that individual selfishness which mistaken ideas of continuing security have fostered.

In Atlanta there is in progress a joint effort by the churches to bring about a spiritual revival that shall change the very temper of our people. A revival is but an awakening to the realities of the spirit.

Let us all pray that this revival shall be so successful, not only in the salvation of the individually lost, but in recreating that spirit of true Americanism, of devotion to principle which is rooted alike in the nation's foundations and in that Christian religion which has ever been the inspiration for all that is good in the American way of life.

Only a very young reporter would say that the old resident passed the birthday quietly, surrounded by his eleven grandchildren.

A Notable Event

There is cause for deep satisfaction in the outcome of negotiations between the steel companies and the organized steel workers. Peacefully, without strike or undue disturbance, arbitration has settled what, at one time, threatened a serious disruption of the national defense effort. Approximately a quarter million workers gained increases in pay rates and other privileges in the new agreement reached. Presumably both labor and management is satisfied by the agreement. But the important thing is it was amicably reached without any interruption to work in the steel mills.

It is perhaps unfortunate that a labor strike, with all its concomitants of halted defense work, picket lines, police and, possibly, riots, attracts far wider public attention than such peaceful settlement of differences as that just achieved in the steel industry.

It is also true that, in any labor strike, the public cannot know, for sure, which side to the dispute is originally to blame. In some cases labor has adopted an attitude so irritating and unreasonable that management disgust and opposition is inevitable. On the other hand, some companies have behaved so unreasonably to their employees that strikes have been equally inevitable. Unfortunately, the public does not know of the primary antagonistic attitude, it sees only the striking workmen or the employer who locks out his workers.

If all industry and all organizations of workers would but take the recent negotiations in the steel industry as model, the amount of strike-delay in the defense program would shrink to almost nothing.

It is to be hoped, now that steel is settled, that the coal industry will likewise arrive at an equitable understanding and thus avoid a delay in coal production that could quickly prove disastrous to defense efforts. However, such an understanding can be reached only by mutual concession. Neither side can expect to get all asked. Initial demands are always made for bargaining purposes and the fair solution lies somewhere in the middle ground that is to be reached by intelligent compromise.

It is estimated there should easily be two chickens in every Nazi pot when Hitler's come home to roost.

Standing Room Only

When a man purchases a theater ticket, he purchases more than the privilege of seeing the show. He purchases a short surcease of sorrow, a respite from reality, a brief physical, mental and spiritual relaxation. In the cool darkness of the theater, nestled comfortably in a cushioned seat, he loves with Gable, suffers with Garbo, and triumphs with Cagney. His is the world of illusion, fragile but flawless as a dream.

How cruel the lot of one who, intent upon this quest, finds bitterness instead, when a theater accepts money for a ticket and then fails to provide a seat for the purchaser. Implicit or actual, the clear duty of a theater operator is to sell the right to sit down within a reasonable limit of time. If the owner fails in that duty, he has actually sold that which he did not possess, a vacant seat.

For decent behavior of the audience the management must depend upon the courtesy of its patrons and for decent entertainment upon the capacities of Hollywood. But for herding patrons like sardines into a packed house, denying them seats, blocking the aisles in an obvious fire-hazard, and selling seats it does not possess, the theater has no one but itself to blame. It is against this policy that a theatergoer, on pleasure bent, has justifiable complaint.

Gleaming neon tubing, deep rugs, and uniformed lackeys that behave in the grand manner cannot replace tramped-upon toes and battered spirits. Tired and spent after a fierce battle royal for a seat, a disillusioned theatergoer sinks exhausted into his seat, mouth oath-filled for his deception. Would not a simple notice at the box-office relieve this shoving and swearing, this constant bickering with the ushers in the aisle, this sense of frustration in the quest of pleasure?

Even a sardine may rise.

Important Co-operation

Six of the nation's most important companies in the short wave radio broadcasting field have mobilized and co-ordinated their resources in the cause of national defense and for the promotion of international goodwill. Stanley P. Richardson, who for 16 years has done important work, chiefly as foreign correspondent, for the Associated Press, has been named international broadcasting co-ordinator for the six companies.

During his career as a correspondent, Richardson served three years as chief of the AP Moscow bureau, served in the London and Berlin offices and was a member of the AP staff at Washington for four years.

The objective of the new agreement on short wave collaboration is to make more effective use of this medium in national defense and the building of international goodwill. Richardson will assist in the development of a more effective and comprehensive world coverage by radio, helping in the scheduling of important programs in order that they may be timed to achieve the maximum results.

The six companies thus co-operating are the National Broadcasting Company, the Columbia Broadcasting System, the General Electric Company, the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, the World Wide Broadcasting Foundation and the Crosley Corporation.

There is nothing of greater potential value in the unifying of the free nations of the world in a common spirit of freedom and of brotherhood than a proper and intelligent use of radio.

Mr. Richardson has undertaken a task which may wield a greater influence on the future of the entire world than almost any other of today.

THE WORLD TODAY

By JAY G. HAYDEN.

EIRE PORTS WASHINGTON, April 15.—An offer to Eire of foodstuffs and military equipment in exchange for British use of Irish west coast ports and air fields is likely to be the next move in an American diplomatic offensive, backed by President Roosevelt's $7,000,000,000 lend-lease power, which is rapidly extending to every corner of the globe.

Administration officials, including the President, have disclaimed any intention of putting pressure on Eire, but Frank Aiken, Irish minister of defense co-ordination, who has been in Washington for some time endeavoring to obtain wheat and military equipment, admittedly has failed either to get these goods or the ships to carry them. The intimation in American official quarters now is that the opening of Irish harbors to British merchant ships, together with the naval and air forces essential to their protection, is the first essential to granting aid to Eire.

A further suggestion, which has not yet been officially broached, is that the United States guarantee British evacuation of Irish soil immediately after the war ends.

The importance of Eire to the protection of the North Atlantic shipping lane has been self-evident ever since the surrender of France extended German submarine and air bases to Brest, and other ports virtually parallel with the British west coast. During the winter these French bases have been developed fully and the sharp increase in sinkings of British merchant ships in recent weeks is attributed largely to the effectiveness of the German submarine and air attack coming from this quarter.

Acquisition of Irish bases, it is now contended, is the one thing that certainly would enable Great Britain to reduce its shipping losses.

SHORTAGE OF PORTS Added to this is the fact that shortage of port facilities for both merchant and naval vessels is increasingly becoming the bottleneck said to have made ports on the British south coast—Portsmouth, Plymouth and Southampton among them—all but untenable, and Bristol is within easy flying reach.

One reason why American conveying of merchant ships has not been seriously contemplated is that this would require the basing of American naval vessels in the British Isles and, as things stand, there is no room for them. The Irish ports of Cobh and Galway, naval authorities say, could be developed quickly for this purpose.

However, the Irish government, scared of German attack and economically hard pressed as it is, has been adamant in its refusal to permit even one armed Britisher to invade its soil. It remains to be seen whether the persuasion of American dollars can change this condition.

LEASE-LEND INFLUENCE Meanwhile, the lease-lend power has reached out in a multitude of other directions. Seizure of German and Italian ships in South and Central American countries last week indicated the effectiveness of American influence in the vital oil-producing areas of Arabia and Syria and in Turkey.

Most important of all may be the lease-lend hand President Roosevelt is playing in the Far East, as indicated by first reports as to the results of the recent conferences the President's personal representative, Lauchlin Currie, had with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek at Chungking.

EASTERN POKER GAME Ostensibly Currie's task was to learn at first hand how much American cash is necessary to put Chinese finances on a sound footing. The reports are that he assured China of additional loans to this end, and much more. Since his visit, Dr. John Earl Baker, an American, has been appointed director general of the Burma road, chief inlet for American and British material aid to China.

Mr. Currie is said to have been instrumental in inducing the implicit of a land law, important from the revenue standpoint, but designed even more to appease the rebellious Communists. The latter have complained that landlords, who compel peasants to pay as much as 60 per cent of their crops in rent, are contributing little or nothing toward cost of the war.

It is just possible that an even bigger diplomatic and economic poker game with Japan may be just around the corner. That country has been showing marked signs of restlessness under the increasing American and British embargoes of materials vital to both her war and peacetime industries.

The recent cabinet appointment of Matsune Ogura, a first-flight industrialist, is construed as a recognition of private business interests which all along have favored adjustment of differences with the United States. Japanese representatives in Washington are frankly hopeful that steps in this direction may become feasible following the return of Yosuke Matsuoka, the Japanese foreign minister, from his ill-timed European jaunt.

What Fools

These Mortals Be!

It is axiomatic in the law that all men must be presumed innocent until they are proven guilty. Thus it would be totally unfair to express any opinion, direct or indirect, upon the trial now in process in the federal court of Walter J. Cutcliffe, alleged former head of a big lottery, or "numbers" racket in Atlanta, on charges of income tax evasion. Cutcliffe may have received the income the prosecution charges he received. In which case it is self-evident he did not pay sufficient in income taxes over a period of several years.

On the other hand, if he did not receive this income, and can so show, he will go from court a free man.

However, a witness at the trial has testified as to the amount of "take" received by one lottery company which operated here, known as the "Home Company." That take, figured for one day as an average and estimated for a year, shows the operators of this company reaped an annual harvest of a million dollars.

It is remembered this was only one company among several, the amount contributed by Atlanta suckers—that is the only properly descriptive word—to the numbers racketeers must have been tremendous. Sufficient, anyway, to bring the lush of shame to the municipal wreck and to arouse wonder as to the evident lack of common intelligence among a people supposed to have received the benefits, most of them, of average education.

For it is difficult to conceive of a greater sucker than the man or woman who plays the numbers game.

Odds Are

Too High.

The odds against winning are so high that it is practically tantamount to giving your money away to buy a numbers ticket. Oh, on rare occasions, someone did win a little. Only a small percentage compared to the rumors and reports of winnings you hear, however. Most of those reported "big winners" were fictions of imagination, originating in the minds of "bug" operators who thought thereby to lure new suckers to their net.

Again, even the winners did not always, by any means, ever handle their winnings. Too many of the operators of the racket were fly-by-nights who much preferred to steal away from the city in the dark of the moon to paying off the few who happened to hit the correct "number."

And, in any event, the money paid to a few winners quickly came back to the pockets of the racketeers. The gullible one who won today would be a certain steady customer, in larger amounts, for many days to come. And each winner would brag about his luck sufficiently to tempt a whole group of new suckers to contribute their pennies and dimes and dollars to the "writers," "pick-up men" and "big shots" of the game.

Millions—

And Relief.

Just think for a moment what the millions of dollars, annually contributed to these bug racketeers, could have done in various ways, if properly used, for the benefit of Atlanta.

For instance, that money donated each year to the county welfare board would just about have solved the problem of supporting the unemployables among us. It would have provided milk for undernourished children, food for starving men, women and babes, hospital treatment for the crippled and diseased. It would have brought new hope into homes long hopeless and a smile of good cheer to the cheeks of women that, for long years, have known nothing but the touch of tears.

Those millions could have been used to provide proper buildings for Atlanta children who today must attend classes in wooden school buildings that constitute a perpetual menace to health and a constant fire hazard.

That money could have built the finest city auditorium in all the country. It could have lifted the debts from the churches of the city. It could have solved all financial problems of the city.

It could have been used to bring lower water rates to all the people or to repave many miles of streets sadly in need of such attention.

It could have prevented crime by making possible a needed increase in the police force.

It could have provided a grand vacation for every poor boy and girl in Atlanta, each summer.

It could have—
But what's the use? It went into the pockets of racketeers and served only to provide sabbatical luxury for individuals who were nothing but blood-sucking parasites upon the social body.

But think of the suckers who paid. What fools, indeed, these mortals be!

Too Much

To Do

INDIANAPOLIS, April 16.—The weather was too bad for flying, so I rode a train from Washington to Indianapolis.

There was something immensely relieving about closing the door on the two-day chaos of homecoming in New York and Washington, and starting westward to space and air and a new slowness in the tempo of life.

If friends in the east felt that I had become an idiot, they were about 99 per cent right. You'd simply have to come home from England yourself to know what I'm talking about.

There is simply too much to do, too many friends to see, too much to talk about. It all winds up in a maelstrom. You don't know where you are or what you're saying. I'm only glad that nobody had forgotten my name, for I'm sure I couldn't have told them what it was.

Traveling is the normal life for me. Through years of practice I have it ground right down to a routine. And I'm so fussy about everything being in its proper place that, in all these years of moving on every morning, I've left almost nothing behind.

But in New York I lost my raincoat, in Washington I lost my suitcase, somewhere along the line my comb and scarf disappeared; if you were a hound dog you could follow me by the trail of books and letters I left strewn across the country.

Now everything will be all right. But out here, or in New Mexico, somebody will say, "Whatcha been doin'?" Haven't seen you around for quite a while." And I'll say, "Oh, I had to go east on business for a spell." And then we'll sit down, and everything will be calm.

Train

Rough!

In England, people were always asking me if the English trains didn't seem very tiny.

The truth is I never felt conscious of much difference in size. But the minute I got on an American train again, it seemed about twice as big as usual.

And boy, was it rough! I came on what I've always found to be the smoothest of the three lines that run between Washington and Indianapolis. But this time I could hardly stand up, and I felt sure the train was going to jump the track.

So, although I wasn't especially aware of it over there, it must be that English roadbeds are smoother than ours.

On the train I got to talking with a railroad man, and he was telling me about the terrific troop movements in this country now. He said that by next month his road alone would have 100 troop trains in service. He said they were moving more troops right now than at the World War peak.

In England this winter I really seriously missed only three things—enough sugar, the New Yorker magazine and Bull Durham tobacco.

In Washington I finally got around to buying a sack of Bull Durham, so on the train I rolled the cigarette that I had been looking forward to for months. And the damn thing tasted so terrible it almost made me sick.

So I guess I'll have to learn all over again to be a cowboy.

No

Reaction

One of my bags is a small blue satchel which Pan American gives its Clipper passengers for their overnight things. It has "Pan American Airways—Trans-Atlantic Service" in white letters on the side.

So on the train I very casually but carefully kicked this bag around so the lettering would be on the outside, and people would know I was a traveler of note. But I guess Americans can't read. For not a single girl dropped a handkerchief as she went down the aisle. Nobody even offered me a cigar. Blast it all!

Before I forget it, I'd like to say something to all the nice people who wrote me letters while I was in England. Many of them asked me to look up friends or relatives over there. But I never got around to doing it.

Mail is so slow that most of the letters came in the last couple of weeks I was there, when there wasn't time left to do anything but get ready to go. Also, I expect a good many have arrived here since I left. And thirdly, I know from experience that many letters never get there at all. But thanks for writing.

My father tells a story about a country bumpkin who went to visit a neighbor, and stayed away from home overnight for the first time in his life.

When he came home the next morning he looked all around the place, and then said, "Well, see you've still got the same old cat."

And so, bumpkinlike, I can only observe that as we sped toward Indianapolis today the spring-touched Hoosier countryside looked just like Indiana to me.

dollars' worth of damage before it was discovered."

And Fifty

Years Ago.

From the news columns of Thursday, April 16, 1891:
"Cincinnati, Ohio, April 15.—The announcement on Friday that Senator McHale's anti-tights bill had passed the Minnesota senate created the most extreme excitement among all classes of the people."

"Manager Wilbur, of the Wilbur Opera Company, at the Lyceum theater, made the announcement that he would present the 'Chimes of Normandy' in bloomers, or in compliance with Senator McHale's bill. Many of the young men about town came to the theater wearing a little short skirt."

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

THE CHEESE IN THE TRAP That British naval victory of a short time ago—in which the Italian fleet was administered a severe defeat—now appears to have been one of the more ruthless but nonetheless brilliant strokes by the German military force.

The Germans care nothing for the Italians. The Germans wanted to land troops on the shores of Africa. The English fleet had worked out a patrol system which made it impossible to begin any troop movements across the Mediterranean. The Germans ordered out the Italian fleet. The English fleet broke its blockade lines and steamed out to do battle. The English ships were pulled far out to sea.

The battle which followed cost the Italians the lives of probably a thousand sailors and the loss of at least three ships, one cruiser and two destroyers. Two others were damaged.

But while the British were steaming out to fight, the German transports were steaming toward Africa loaded with soldiers. The Germans got them there at the cost of a few hundred Italians.

Had they attempted to move the troops through the English blockade, they would have lost thousands of Germans. It was ruthless, as war always is ruthless. The Italian people knew nothing of it and know nothing of it today. The Italian command could do nothing else. There is the possibility they were deceived.

At any rate, the Germans moved their own troops and established themselves where they could do the English the most damage—without any risk to German life.

The cheese in the trap was Italian cheese. And when the trap was sprung, ironically enough, the rat which got caught was the Italian rat.

The German coup was the most successful one of this new phase of the war. Students of war just now are discovering that what appeared to be a brilliant English sea victory was merely a kick at a dead horse. The German transports sailed toward Africa when the English ships steamed after the Italians. The German advances in Africa began immediately.

THE FAILURE OF FASCISM The collapse of the Italians offers an interesting commentary on the success of Fascism.

It is not fitted for peace. Mussolini knew this. It was never a satisfactory form of government. National opposition was growing so great that Mussolini began to agitate. He carried this on to the conquest of Ethiopia. He took it on into Spain.

The Nazi form of Fascism has fattened and grown strong on war. Hitler has never let the people stop to examine the Fascist form of government. He has led them to the Ruhr; he occupied the demilitarized section of the Rhine; he thumbed his nose at the Versailles treaty and its restrictions on armament. He kept demanding more room for his people, and no one noted the incongruity of the campaign to produce more babies because he wanted more people. He marched on from one hysteria to another and then came the beginning of the drama now before us. He occupied Austria.

We all know he could have been stopped without too much trouble when he was sending troops into the Ruhr. He was just a preliminary fighter in those days and any one of the champs, France or England, could have taken him in two or three fast rounds. He might even have taken a dive or thrown in the towel.

Fascism is a government of war. A Fascist dictator, Mussolini or Hitler, cannot look back. The screws always must be tightened. Judging from authentic reports from the several correspondents who have written on what happened in Italy, the Germans knew Italy was through long before the Italians knew it. They were there. And now are able to control the country.

TRAINS ON TIME It was not so many years ago there was a sort of admiration for Benito.

This was in the days when he was making the trains run on time. American tourists would go to Italy and come home filled with admiration. Benito's trains ran on time.

They would sit around on the American trains, which rarely run any other way except on schedule, and marvel at Benito. The fact that his trains ran on time seemed to be such a great thing. It demonstrated that what we needed was some of Benito's brand of government, they argued.

The late Will Rogers, in the days when he was writing the "Letter of a Self-Made Man" to his President, interviewed Mussolini and wrote well of him and his brand of government. He came right out and said that some of it wouldn't be bad for us.

What people forget is that the Fascists were a political party—not a philosophy.

The Nazis are a party. The Communists are a party.

They have developed a philosophy. It is to control everything. Hitler gets no salary. He is rich. Hermann Goering gets no salary from the government. They gave him all the iron mines and steel plants of Germany. The private owners were squeezed out.

One must belong to the Nazi or Fascist or Communist party to have a hand in the government.

They remain in power through ruthless application of power; through corrupt looting of the state, and through suppression. They keep the people cheering by winning victories. Hitler has about him real leaders. This has made him stronger than any of his one-time rivals. Stalin killed off all his. Mussolini would permit none.

But now we know that Fascism isn't a government for peace.

Teddy Set an Example of He-Man Living, and He Knew Every Bird Song

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Half a century ago, or thereabouts, people brought up in the backwoods endeavored to forget their feelings of inferiority by ridiculing every form of culture. A boy who liked books or studied music was regarded as a sissy.

Teddy Roosevelt did much to end that folly, but the feeling still persists in another form.

A recent number of Reader's Digest printed a funny piece by Stephen Leacock, ridiculing people who enjoy birds and the other wild creatures and watch their housekeeping in the spring.

The New Yorker frequently prints cartoons that make fun of nature lovers and give the impression that anybody who listens to a bird song is touched in the head.

As a result of these and similar gibes, those who regard themselves as he-men are somewhat scornful of bird-lovers, and boys in suburban and rural regions, armed with 22 rifles, air rifles and slingshots, see no harm in killing anything that has feathers.

The whole controversy, if you can call it that, probably stems from the fact that all of us are inclined to minimize the importance of things outside our own experience.

The New Yorker spends his life indoors or in vehicles and walks on pavements between the towering homes and offices of modern cliff-dwellers. His whole existence is artificial. His interests, tastes and pleasures are limited by horizons of brick and steel. He is as far from the soil as though he lived on another planet

Charleston News and Courier flings its editorial columns into a defense of the lowly catfish—with reservations. Because there are catfish and catfish—of various kinds. Some about as fit to eat as a buzzard. But others? Oh my, oh my!

It led Editor Henry McIntosh, of the Albany Herald, to express his views. Let me quote a bit:

"Some varieties of catfish are wholly unfit for food; others are either good or better, but there is only one best. That one is the channel cat, long found in the streams of this section. In Florida and its larger tributaries in this section the channel cat has flourished since very early times, and it is, as the initiated know, one of the finest of fresh-water fishes.

"The channel cat is no scavenger. It feeds not on filth, but seeks its living in running water. That is why its name, 'channel cat,' fits it so admirably. Fresh from the water and held up to the light, its flesh is almost translucent. Cooked as any good fish deserves to be cooked, the yellow-tinted flesh comes away from the bone structure with nary a bone to pester a fellow's mouth, and nary a regret till the last mouthful is gone. We have it on good authority that there is no such thing as getting enough catfish when it is prepared by a cook who knows how.

For a long time market fishermen took channel cats in great numbers from the streams of this section in baskets, but these were long ago outlawed. The hook-and-line fisherman finds the chan-

I'll confess I didn't know why they were called "channel" cat. But I know they're mighty fine eating. You can get them—sometimes—in Atlanta restaurants. And you can buy them at Bolton, where the Dixie highway bridge crosses the Chattahoochee. There are folk around there who do nothing but fish. For channel cat. And they seem to catch a lot of them.

P.T.A. Group Hears Defense Plan Warning

Atlantan Among Speakers at Convention in Macon.

MACON, Ga., April 15.—(P)—

Warning that "one of the chief dangers of the defense program is that we may decide that total defense consists chiefly of building up armed forces," Howard A. Dawson, rural education authority, told Georgia parents and teachers here today that "there can be no total defense without a democratic system of education in which the democratic spirit prevails."

400 Delegates Present.

Addressing nearly 400 delegates to the 28th annual convention of the Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers, Dawson, director of the rural service division of National Education Association, Washington, declared that "total defense must prepare our people for preserving a form of government that rests for its authority, indirectly, upon the Bill of Rights."

Pointing out that America has an obligation to the men it has regimented under the Selective Service Act, the speaker told the assembly, attending second-day sessions in the Macon auditorium, that "as the American Youth Commission points out, a group of our most promising young men, 'has been trained to kill and to take the risk of being killed in order that the democratic community of free people can continue to exist.'"

"In light of this," Dawson continued, "it is imperative for all of us to re-examine the extent to which the state is carrying out its obligation toward the citizen."

Participating this morning in a symposium on education and total defense, led by Mrs. Charles D. Center, were President Knox Walker, of the Georgia Education Association, Atlanta, general supervisor of Fulton county schools; Past President J. I. Allman, of the GEA, and Miss Jane Franseith, of the Division of Education of Georgia Teachers' College.

Atlantan Speaks.

The assembly heard an address this afternoon by Dr. E. R. Watson, Atlanta, associate director of the maternal and child health division of the State Department of Health, and tonight a talk by Dr. Harold D. Meyer, former Georgian and new dean of the School of Sociology at University of North Carolina.

The convention will continue through tomorrow.

Nominations Tonight at D. A. R. Meeting

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(P) Politics and pageantry held the attention tonight of the golden jubilee congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution. It was arranged today that the 21 candidates for national office, already in the field, would be seated upon the flag and flower decorated stage tomorrow night when nominations will be opened to the convention at large.

So far the national slate of 14 members, headed by Mrs. William H. Pouch, of New York, for president general, is unopposed. Since she has the support of her state delegation and of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and several midwest states, all large delegations, her election is expected.

GOURD ECONOMY—Governor Talmadge's economy program found an ardent patron in J. R. (Country) Ham, of Cordele, assistant to H. Carson Smith, head of the State Purchasing Department. He decided paper cups cost the state a lot of money—$12,000 a year, in fact. So he brought along his gourd to use at the fountain instead of a paper cup. Here he is gulping down a gourdful of aqua pura.

Cost Inflation Pushing British Money Change

May Soon Have Fiat Currency; U. S. Price Anchor Seen.

CLEVELAND, April 15.—(P)—Beset by "real price inflation," England soon may "have to resort to the use of fiat money, often referred to as printing press money, or its equivalent, direct borrowing from the Bank of England," the Cleveland Trust Company predicted today.

"In England living costs have increased consistently since the outbreak of war in September of 1939," the bank said in its monthly business review. "The increase now amounts to 26 per cent. 'During the month following the declaration of war the cost of living in Canada rose almost as fast as it did in England but since that time the rate of advance has been much more moderate.'"

"The index of the cost of living in this country increased 2 per cent immediately upon the outbreak of the war, then it sagged a little for three months. Since December of 1939 it has had a slow advance that has brought it to 2.5 per cent above the pre-war level."

Cleveland Trust noted "in the dictator countries, where the controls are so severe that they eliminate all choices of individuals, prices have remained fairly steady."

With the "great supply of resources" available in the United States, the bank said, "we should be able to carry out our armament program without being hindered by costly price advances."

SOLDIERS TRANSFERRED. FORT BENNING, Ga., April 15.—(P)—Eight enlisted men have left here for detached service in Panama City, Fla., under Captain James W. Keith, who is in charge of improving the area for Army recreation.

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

Roy B. Sewell made a talk at a brotherhood dinner in our church the other night that greatly impressed every man present. Mr. Sewell is a clothing manufacturer, widely known as a successful businessman, and as a faithful deacon in our church, but not until the other night had he been thought of as an after-dinner speaker. But he proved himself just that very thing in a five-minute talk, which deeply moved every man's heart who heard him.

Asked to say something about a successful life, Mr. Sewell, among other things, said: "He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often, and loved much."

Who has enjoyed the trust of pure women, the respect of intelligent men, and the love of little children. Who has filled his niche and accomplished his task. Who has left the world better than he found it, whether by an improved poppy, a perfect poem, or a rescued soul. Who has never lacked appreciation of earth's beauty or failed to express it. Who has always looked for the best in others and given the best he had. Whose life was an inspiration. Whose memory a benediction.

Mr. Sewell was one of the survivors of the tragic plane crash near Jonesboro a few weeks ago, and I shall never forget his frequent statements during his stay in the hospital, that it was only through the goodness and mercy of the Lord that his life had been spared, and how he purposed anew to serve the Lord in joyful obedience to His holy will. It is only in such a purpose, only by such commitment, that any person can attain to the ideals set forth in the talk Roy Sewell made

Prison Break Failure Laid to Pair's Drinking

Co-Conspirators Were in Tavern Instead of Waiting Car.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 15.—(P)—The desire for a "couple of drinks" by two confessed outside aides of a desperate convict trio who "crushed out" of Sing Sing prison probably caused the failure of the plot which resulted in four deaths and murder charges against four men.

District Attorney Elbert T. Gallagher said that William Wade, 32, and Edward Kiernan, 33, both of New York, confessed they smuggled three pistols into the prison nearly a month ago on a milk delivery truck.

With the smuggled weapons, Convicts Joseph Riordan, Charles McGale and John Waters fought their way to temporary freedom early yesterday. When they got outside the wall after fatally shooting a prison guard, their co-conspirators were having drinks in a tavern instead of standing beside a waiting escape car as planned, according to Gallagher.

Waters was killed in a gun fight with Ossining police, in which a police officer also was slain. In the prison infirmary, where the break started, a convict patient died of excitement and shock.

500 To Attend S.A.E. Open House

Approximately 500 persons are expected to attend open house and dedication exercises of the new Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity house on the Tech campus, from 5 to 7 o'clock Friday afternoon, Frank Allcorn, president of the fraternity, announced yesterday.

Built at a cost of nearly $35,000, the house will be known as "Bobby Jones Hall" in honor of the Atlanta golfer. Both Bobby Jones Jr. and Bobby Jones Sr. were members of S. A. E.

The fraternity formerly had its house at 714 Techwood drive. The new quarters on Fourth street have already been furnished and 22 boys have been living there since Saturday.

U. S. Signs Coffee Pact With Latin-Americans

WASHINGTON, April 15.—(P) Representatives of eight Latin-American nations and the United States today signed a special protocol putting into effect the inter-American coffee agreement designed to stabilize the coffee industry of the western hemisphere.

Under the pact, coffee importations into the United States are limited to 15,545,000 bags. This amount is divided between the various participating nations according to their production.

Gray Trial in Athens Excites Much Interest

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. ATHENS, Ga., April 15.—The trial of Elmer Gray, charged with the slaying of E. C. Hansford last February 6, got under way in Clarke county superior court yesterday, with Solicitor General Henry West handling the prosecution.

Standing room wasn't available in the courtroom and the crowd extended into the halls and corridors surrounding the scene of the trial that has attracted more interest in this section than any other in several years. Gray's lawyers are basing their case on the defendant's claim he was forced to shoot Hansford in self-defense.

POINTS TO MISTAKE In "COMMON ERROR"

Editor Constitution: May I say modestly that you are all wrong in "Today's Common Error" on page 30 of the paper.

The sentence has two clauses. The principal clause is "The man was my friend," the modifying clause is "Whom I know." In the modifying clause the pronoun following the very "know" should be of the objective form, "Whom."

MANY INTERESTED IN CANADIAN TRAVEL

Editor Constitution: I would like to express my personal appreciation for the very fine editorial that appeared in The Constitution headed "To Understand Canada."

The interest in Canadian travel as evidenced by advance enquiries, has been very good, and Canada is preparing to make every effort to show their appreciation of the vacation travel from the United States this summer.

NEW YORK, April 15.—(R)—Viscount Halifax said tonight Axis successes in the Balkans and Africa had caused "grave repercussions" but had thwarted Hitler's hopes for further diplomatic conquest and prevented the concentration of striking power against Great Britain itself—"in the only theater which could be decisive."

He said that, as a result, the British were "in a position to be prepared for delivery at a banquet given in his honor by the English-Speaking Union, Hitler can be expected 'to make every effort, by ruthless attacks on shipping and indiscriminate night bombing, to smash the center of resistance."

In the Balkans, he said, "the situation is still far from clear, but it is evident that the German forces, moving in overwhelming strength at a moment chosen by themselves, have had, as they were bound to have, a large measure of initial success."

He said British forces in Africa were "deliberately weakened" to rush aid to Yugoslavia and Greece, making it "necessary to withdraw from Libya to new positions, although we have suffered loss in doing so, we have made the enemy pay dearly for his advance."

Seen from the long view—"on large-scale maps"—Hitler is faced with resistance he did not expect, Lord Halifax said, and will, with "all the expenditure of effort and interruption of vital economic supplies that this involves."

Raymond Collett, also of Alpharetta, entered a white-faced steer, which was awarded the reserve grand champion laurel. The steer, called "Jerry" by its 11-year-old owner, was entered in the 4-H classes. Cecil Martin, of Jefferson, won the Future Farmer title for his Aberdeen Angus steer.

Cards Out-Homer Reds, 7 to 3; White Sox Defeat Bob Feller, 4 to 3

BY JACK TROY

Well, All Right! SULPHUR DELL, NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 15.—All right, I'll write a poem. Enough of this mistaken identity business. An so, with apologies to no one except the lino-type operator, here goes:

High above the motley crowd
Hangs a press box like a cloud.
And in the distance plain to see
Is piled up earth like Mt. Pele.

What's that mt. n'rag, at that,
Measured now and then by bat?
Word of honor you won't tell?
That's right field in Sulphur Dell.

And what's that odor on the air
Strongly suggesting Maxie Baer?
Oh, Death, where is thy sting—
It's dear old Nashville in the spring.

George Bugbee, sports editor of the Memphis Press-Scimitar, recently commented rather profoundly on the state of baseball affairs in Nashville in general—and Sulphur Dell in particular.

There is a bit of rivalry between Memphis and Nashville, and Bugbee brought up the old issue that Manager Larry Gilbert not only has a rather vast bulge on other clubs with 77 home games in Sulphur Dell, but that he intimidates the umpires as well.

This sort of talk, suh, brings the Nashville-Memphis rivalry out in the open and calls for action. The sports writers of the two cities probably will supply same with heated words at 10 paces.

At any rate, Larry Gilbert ought to be ashamed of himself for taking advantage of the brothers in blue. Or maybe he ought to feel honored that Bugbee considers him such a power.

Personally, I always thought Larry won that pennant last year because every Vol was a hitter and Culler and Mihalic could make double plays better than anybody else.

Nashville would have won if the league had dispensed with umpires by May 1. Still, in regard to Sulphur Dell, I think Bugbee has something there. And I'll wait outside until he buries it.

Old Faithful Picking out the field with the aid of binoculars from our lofty perch in the grandstand ceiling, we noted a rather familiar figure walking near the Cracker dugout.

Taking another good look, I recalled seeing this nattily attired sport walking near the Tech bench at Berkeley, Cal., and in the vast Rose Bowl at Pasadena, and strolling up to greet Fred Snite at Notre Dame stadium, South Bend.

I also recalled how he stalked Chicago's northside for hours one night looking for a water taxi at the suggestion of W. A. Alexander, who painted a brilliant description of the lights of Chicago from the lake. Only hitch was they'd been discontinued some dozen years before. That is, the water taxis.

Murdoch Eguen rarely misses a Cracker opener at home or on the road, and the same goes for Tech football games away from home when business permits.

Encouragement Major Trammell Scott, Southern League president, has been encouraged by word from New Orleans that Holy Thursday was largely responsible for such low attendance on opening day. Scarcely more than 2,000 saw the Pels and Pebbles play.

Bill Keefe, sports editor of the Times-Picayune, informed Scott that the league may expect to see greatly improved attendance in the Crescent City if the brand of baseball warrants it.

Ray Blades indicated that he will provide a winner by knocking off Bert Niehoff's Pebbles three in a row in the opening series. That's an unusually bad start for Niehoff.

Blades, a driving type of pilot, should prove popular with the rabid New Orleans fans after such easy-going managers as Roger Peckinpaugh and Andy Anderson.

No one ever had to ask them, "Where's the fire?"

Oddity Music at the Vol-Cracker opener was supplied by three county bands. For the Vol-Cracker opener at Chattanooga, the mayor of Nashville, Tom Cummings, sent five city high school bands. They stole the show.

However, not a city band was present today because the head of the city school system wouldn't excuse them for the occasion.

A lot of civic drumbeating failed to produce a crowd large enough to contest Chattanooga for the Class B cup. Counting children, the Vol crowd was far below Chattanooga's 10,000.

QUARLES BEATEN. LANCASTER, Pa., April 15.—(AP)—Billy Davis, 141, of Pottsville, Pa., won a 10-round decision over Normant Quarles, 137, Hendersonville, S. C., in the wind-up of a boxing show here last night.

Mize Smashes First of Year; Dodgers Lose

Derringer Chased From Mound as Redbirds Go on Spree.

CINCINNATI, April 15.—(AP)—Driving big Paul Derringer from the mound in the eighth, the St. Louis Cardinals outthrew the world champion Reds today to win the season's opener, 7 to 3, before 34,940 howling fans.

Slugging Johnny Mize iced the game with the Cards' third home run, scoring Moore ahead of him to give St. Louis a 7-3 triumph over the world champions. The Reds' final run came in the ninth on McCormick's second homer of the game.

Albany Favored as Georgia-Florida League Launches 7th Season

4 New Pilots Begin Duty in Class D Loop

Walker Hopes Attendance Will Reach 400 Mark.

By ALBERT RILEY JR.
THOMASVILLE, Ga., April 15. (AP) — Curtains-raised in Albany, Moultrie, Tallahassee and Valdosta send the Georgia-Florida Baseball League off to its seventh season tomorrow amid all the traditional fanfare that marks opening day in America's great national sport.

Weeks of spring training are behind and all eight clubs are poised today to begin the 147-game race with the Waycross Bears, defending champions, and the Albany Cardinals, favorites to cop the 1941 pennant.

The Bears, who grabbed every honor that was nailed down last year, including the pennant race and the play-off, open up at Valdosta while Albany entertains Americus, and Moultrie plays host to Cordele. Thomasville opens under the lights at Tallahassee. Thursday will see the battle scenes reversed.

NEW PLAYERS.
As usual in this fast class D loop that serves as a stepping stone for rookies to higher class baseball, there will be many new faces on all line-ups and only two managers are back at the same posts they held last year.

Al Leitz returned for his third season at Waycross and is gunning for another flag, while chunky Joe Cusick is returning to pilot the Albany Cardinals. Two other skippers who were in the circuit last season are in the league again but at different posts. Bill Morrell switched from Valdosta to Cordele and Stewart Hoffert from Americus to Valdosta.

The four new managers are Dick Luckey at Americus, big Buzz Arlett at Moultrie, Lance Richbourg at Tallahassee, and colorful "Ratmeat" Bill Rodgers at Thomasville.

Although Pete Thomassie, Lefty Lawson and other stars who helped Waycross win last year, have moved up to faster company, Al Leitz has Willie Borden, Frog Horton, Charlie Brewster and Charlie Atwater back this season and enough new talent to look good in exhibition games. Albany's Cards have been showing up well in clashes with other St. Louis farm clubs and are coming in for pre-season recognition.

The Cordele Reds are being stamped as a dark horse outfit likely to be a first division club this year while it's a toss-up as to which other team will be among the top four. At Thomasville, however, the outlook is not as bright as last year when the Tourists overpowered every other club except Waycross to be runner-up to the Bears. A weaker outfield and lack of pitching has Rodgers worried over his rookie Tourists' whose nickname has been changed to Lookouts.

Great Thesz Grapples Roche At City Auditorium Tonight

One of the season's classiest wrestling matches is scheduled tonight at the city auditorium when Louis Thesz, twice heavyweight champion of the world, and Dorv Roche, for eight years a contender but never a titleholder, clash in a 90-minute contest that should keep the customers on their feet from going to gong.

Thesz is all that could be asked of a wrestler. Fast, smart, resourceful, conditioned for any distance, this unmarked Hungarian is indeed the perfect wrestler. He lost his title to Bronko Nagurski when he sustained a leg injury and has been unable to gain a return match with the former Minnesota grid great.

Roche is a finished wrestler and has the knack of giving the fans the sort of action they pay to see.

At 8:30, Marvin Jones, who specializes in hook scissors, takes Jack Kennedy, rough-and-ready Texan.

Joe Millich and Joe Campbell, just a couple of guys named Joe, meet in the semi-final, which is a three-fall match. The opening event looks the better of the two, so fans will want to be on hand for the first gong.

Prices range from 35 cents to $1.10.

LOUIS THEZ
Former Champion.

Mayor, Jones To Help Open Bowling Meet

World's Champion Team To Compete Here Saturday, April 26.

The fourteenth annual National Duckpin Congress tournament will be formally opened Saturday morning at 11 o'clock at the downtown bowling alleys over Belle Isle Garage. Morgan Blake, president of the congress, will conduct the opening ceremonies with Bob Jones, Mayor LeCraw and Troy Chastain, chairman of the county commissioners, aiding him. Dobby Jones rolled the first ball down the alleys in their chistening in November, 1939, and will now take an active part in the first opening ceremonies for the national tournament in its initial staging in the south.

Elsewhere on this page will be found a picture of the world's champion men's team, the Blue Ribbons, from Williamstown, Conn., who, collectively and individually, are recognized as the cream of the duckpin bowling crop in the United States.

Lead-off man, Nick Tronsky, is the 1940 all-events champion who amassed a total of 1,283 to win this title; he also was 1939 all-events champion with a score of 1,240. He is carrying an average in the current year of over 128. Steve Dyak, 1940 winner of the John Dennis tournament with a score of 717 for five games, is carrying an average of 128 this year. Joe Gack, now carrying 127 average, Mike Bogino and Bill Tatro complete the team. Mike and Bill have been bowling for many years while they do not participate in as many matches or bowl in as many leagues as the younger members of the team, they are tournament asoned and always throw in high score, where they are most needed. Frank Barber always backs his team to the limit and is the sponsor for this aggregation which he has gathered together for the express purpose of capturing all the titles in the bowling circles, all over the country.

These stars will bowl their doubles at 4 p. m., their singles at 5 p. m. and their team match at 7 p. m. Saturday, April 26. All Atlantans are invited to come and see these greats of the duckpin world bowl when the chips are down—and there will be no admission charge at any time.

Sunday, April 13 and 20, the alleys will be open for tournament bowling only for out-of-town people. The first weekend, Washington and Baltimore will be here and the 19th and 20th Connecticut and Rhode Island bowlers will come down.

Phillies Release Rookie to Chicks

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 15.—(AP)—Dale Jones, tall right-hander, has been sent to the Memphis Chicks on option by the Philadelphia Phillies, Vice President Frank Longiotti, of the Chicks, announced.

Jones was with Baltimore, of the International League, last season. He appeared in 26 games, with a record of two victories and no defeats. He was with Helena, of the Cotton States League, in 1939.

Bulldogs Beat Tough Tigers In Close Game

Van Davis' Homer Gives Georgia 3-2 Victory Over Clemson.

ATHENS, Ga., April 15.—Van Davis' towering home run in the second inning and a great seven-inning relief hurling chore by Sophomore "Lefty" Forehand were combined this afternoon to give Georgia a 3-to-2 decision over Clemson's baseball team.

Davis slammed out his four-base blow to break a 2-2 tie, which Clemson had earned off Bill Ferguson, Georgia starting pitcher, in the second frame, and Forehand threw his curve ball at the Tigers for the rest of the game to protect his slender lead.

ORDINARY HITTING.

The Bulldogs, noted for their hitting, were just ordinary at bat today, but turned in three fielding gems that pulled one of the fastest played games of the season away from the brinks of defeat.

In the seventh frame, Joe Kilian, captain and rightfielder, went all the way to the right-center fence to make a brilliant one-handed catch of Buchanan's drive that had extra bases labeled all over it. Blalock, who was on first base at the time, had already rounded third when Kilian pulled the drive out of the air, and had the ball held safe the score would have been tied.

Georgia got two runs in the first on Chatham's single, a fielder's choice, Bobby Moore's triple and a wild pitch.

COME RIGHT BACK.

The Tigers came right back with two in the second. Buchanan lived on Welch's error at short, advanced to second when Iric grounded out to the pitcher, and scored on Parker's double to left. Brickley singled into left, but Parker stopped at third, with Brickley barely making it to second after Kilian had thrown in the place to shut off a run. Good hit to shortstop, and Welch threw Parker out at the plate. Berry singled, sending Good to third, and Coakley walked, filling the bags. At that point, Forehand replaced Ferguson and Belk immediately lined out to Van Davis at first, ending the inning.

Georgia goes to Auburn this weekend for a pair of games, playing here again on the following week-end, against Florida.

Stolen Auto Is Returned To Owner After 5 Days

An automobile stolen from Thomas F. Gardine, of 2075 Dellwood drive last Wednesday was returned Monday night to the point near where the vehicle was left by Mr. Gardine.

Mrs. Rosalind M. Luncford, of 2041 Dellwood, called Fulton police yesterday, saying a strange car was parked in her driveway. A checkup by officers revealed that the machine, apparently none the worse for wear, was the machine stolen from the neighboring home last week.

'Chip' Robert, Conant Return From Missions

Government To Hear Reports on Bases, 'Scientific' Information.

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP)—Dr. James Bryant Conant, Harvard University president who went to England two months ago as the head of a three-man group "to exchange scientific information vital to the United States and Great Britain," returned today aboard the Dixie Clipper, which carried 40 other passengers.

The Clipper carried 22 passengers from Lisbon, one from Trinidad and 18 from Bermuda. L. W. ("Chip") Robert Jr., former secretary of the Democratic national committee, who arrived from Bermuda, said he went there last Saturday unofficially to "examine the naval base there." He said "everything is going fine and they are making excellent progress."

Robert said he planned to go directly to the Navy Department at Washington and report on his trip, reiterating it was "unofficial."

"Too bad—but I haven't got a story," Dr. Conant said.

He declined to say what form his report would take or to comment on the war, explaining:

"I can't talk about politics." "The mission received a very cordial welcome," he added. "In many ways we hated to leave, but nevertheless we are glad to be home."

Dr. Conant was accompanied by Carroll L. Wilson, a member of the mission and special liaison officer of the national defense research committee.

Asked whether bombings had bothered the mission, Wilson replied:

"We didn't see any bombs."

Dr. Conant, who left for his Cambridge, Mass., home, said that later in the week he would go to Washington to report. Wilson left directly for Washington. The third member of the group, Frederick L. Hovde, remained in London as permanent secretary of the committee.

Effective Influenza Vaccine Reported

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 15. (AP)—Dr. Frank Acree, Greenville, Miss., told the Arkansas Medical Society here today that he had registered 100 per cent effectiveness for an influenza vaccine, developed by the international health division of the Rockefeller Foundation.

The vaccine, made by the inoculation of influenza's virus "A" into a partially hatched hen's egg, offers new hope for the eradication of influenza, Dr. Acree reported. He explained that it would be for immunization against influenza and not for treatment of the disease.

Clarence Burch Heads Knights Templar Body

DUBLIN, Ga., April 15.—Clarence V. Burch, local oil dealer, was elected commander of Olivet Commandery No. 27, Knights Templar, at the annual convocation last night.

Other officers named to serve with him are S. V. Conyers, generalissimo; Dr. M. Z. Claxton, captain general; W. W. Brinson, senior warden; L. D. Woods, junior warden; C. C. Crockett, prelate; T. C. Keen, treasurer; George Currell, recorder; P. A. Williamson, standard-bearer; T. J. Pritchett, sword bearer; S. M. Alsop, warden; W. W. Bush, third guard; L. P. Keen, second guard; J. J. Flanders, first guard, and Milo Smith, sentinel.

Mrs. Astor Is Wed To Florida Socialite

NEW YORK, April 15.—(AP)—Mrs. Helen Huntington Astor, former wife of Vincent Astor and a leading New York music patron, was married today to Lytle Hull, of Palm Beach, Fla., her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Huntington, announced.

The bride obtained a divorce from Astor, head of one of America's wealthiest families, last September in Cody, Wyo., after a marriage of 26 years.

Astor subsequently married Mary Cushing, one of the three daughters of the late Dr. Harvey Cushing, famous brain specialist.

PAN-AMERICA

Fifty-one years ago today, the first Pan-American Conference, called by James G. Blaine, Secretary of State in the Cabinet of President Harrison, adopted a resolution forming the Pan-American Union, composed of the Republics of North, Central and South America.

Today, this western hemisphere union is joined by closer bonds of mutual interest than ever before in world history. The story of the discovery, settlement, and political organization of the western hemisphere, and the establishment of the 21 American Republics is more important to all Americans today than ever before.

This newspaper's Service Bureau at Washington has ready for you two carefully prepared special publications, invaluable to students and everyone else who wants to know more about the Republics composing the Pan-American Union.

"Pan-American Histo-Graph" is a large chart showing in colors the development of the 20 American Republics from the earliest discoveries down to date.

"Pan-America at a Glance" is a chart 17"x22" in size, showing boundaries, capitals, chief ports and cities, the Pan-American highway, road conditions and distances; text of the Monroe Doctrine and two Declarations of Lima; national populations, areas and statistics of foreign trade.

To order these two publications in a single packet, fill out the coupon below and mail as directed:

Jealous Wife Is Husband's Problem

By DIXIE GEORGE.

(An Atlanta woman conducts this column of friendly counsel. Her cheerful, sympathetic and logical advice is available to any reader of The Constitution in helping to solve bothersome problems of heart and home. Another person's opinion is valuable and often necessary as the guide to a sensible decision. Dixie George offers the real service of a real friend. Send your letters to her and she will give her advice in this column. Your name will be held in confidence. Write Dixie George, care The Constitution.)

Dear Dixie:

I have the sweetest wife in the world, and she has always been fine in every respect, but lately she has developed the strangest way of acting when we go out together. I cannot account for it because I just do not see why she would suspect that I am interested in all the women present. She is forever telling me that she will have to keep her eye on me, because some other woman might try to get me. That is foolish, and I know it. Then if I speak to any woman, or talk any with one, my wife dashes up, slips her arm in mine and says, "Be careful he is mine!" That makes it very embarrassing to all concerned. Why can't a man enjoy friendly talks with women without the wife suspecting that he is unfaithful? Anything you could tell me on this subject will be greatly appreciated. When we get home and I say anything to her about it she tells me to mind my own business—that she is going to keep her husband under all circumstances. What can I do? It is really getting me.

FAITHFUL HUSBAND.

Dear Faithful Husband:

Well, you are well named, Faithful Husband, if you have to contend with a wife as you describe, and still think of her as the "sweetest wife in the world." I think your wife has a violent case of jealousy and at this point in the game, there is really nothing you can do. A jealous woman is hard to live with, for anything you do, or anything you say takes on double significance.

You seem to see this situation very clearly and see that your wife is being unjust in her thoughts of you. Could it be possible to arrange your affairs so that the going out and the contacts with others could be of her suggestion? That might help to relieve her mind that you don't always want to be with other women. Why not suggest a second honeymoon? Take her away on a trip, just you two, and let her see that she is the only woman you want to be with. I am sure she is acting perfectly ridiculous.

Paneled Dress Has 'Room To Grow In'

By Lillian Mae.

This double-purpose style will appeal to every practical mother! For, depending on your fabric and style treatment, versatile Pattern 4695 becomes either a sturdy play-time dress or a dainty party-time frock. Lillian Mae has designed it in paneled lines for quick sewing and for easy fit, with "room to grow in!" The yoke makes an engaging dip in front, holding the cake-frosting ruffle in place. The dress-up style looks adorable in dainty eyelet batiste or voile, while the more tailored version uses a sturdier cotton with self-fabric or contrasting collar. The optional back-tying sash looks pert and crisp. If your fabric is striped, you might try the version shown for decorative effect.

Pattern 4695 is available in children's sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6 takes 2 3/8 yards 35-inch fabric and 1 1/8 yards ruffling.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins for this Lillian Mae pattern. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

MY DAY: Easter Renews Our Faith and Hope

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Monday.—Yesterday was a beautiful day. The four children who are staying in the house went out on the lawn after breakfast to roll Easter eggs. Later I received a bouquet of Easter lilies from the people of Bermuda, and then most of us went to church with the President.

We had a number of friends with us for lunch. In the afternoon I received Senora Najera, wife of the Mexican ambassador, and Senora Avila Camacho, whose husband is brother of the President of Mexico. After that, I received the high school senior class from Staatsburgh, N. Y., which is the village next to Hyde Park. They have been very fortunate in having such good weather and I am sure enjoyed their trip.

The crowds in Washington are great. I do not remember seeing so much traffic. I am particularly glad that the cherry blossoms are out, so that no one who came hoping to see them will go away disappointed.

The White House has been filled to capacity with sight-seers during the visiting hours, and I am sure this is so with all the public buildings. Our own young people went out to Mt. Vernon on Saturday and could not even get inside the house.

Yesterday afternoon I left Washington by plane for Los Angeles, Cal. Weddings seem to fill my days just now, and I am here for my son Jimmy's wedding to a very sweet and lovely girl, Romelle Schneider. His orders will take him to the Pacific fleet very shortly, so I had to make this flying trip, which seems very strenuous.

In these days one does almost the impossible for a glimpse of some one whom one may not see for a long time, particularly at important times in their lives. I am well repaid for the trip, not only by being with Jimmy and Romelle and their friends, but by seeing Anna and John Boettger, who came down from Seattle for the occasion.

The Easter service yesterday gave me a sense of what tremendous faith people all over the world must have in order to believe there is a God with enough understanding and love to continue renewing hope through the symbol of the Resurrection.

It proves, I suppose, that no matter what we human beings do that is wrong or stupid, the power that is God believes eventually we may grow better. For all of us, therefore, there is renewed hope which must never fail us either as individuals or as nations.

My trip was a little uncertain, for I had been told we would probably be delayed by thunderstorms, but I have learned long ago to possess my soul in patience and accept the inevitable. Therefore, I said a little prayer that I would arrive in time at both ends of this journey, and thus far things seem to have gone fairly well.

Grey Hair Needs Special Care

By Winifred Ware.

When a woman's hair begins to grey, she is likely to assume that all the unattractive qualities concerned with the hair are as inevitable as the greying. Looking at the grey hair of women around us there is much foundation for this assumption. Too often it is dull and lifeless. Like as not it has yellowish tints in it instead of being sparkling with white highlights.

There is no need for this state of affairs. With a little care grey hair can become as beautiful in its own right as hair of any other color. It is true that at the time of greying the oil glands too begin to slow up in action. For this reason all the "musts" for the care of any hair are doubly important with grey hair. Grey hair, too, must be kept immaculately clean. This, along with conscientious brushing keeps a normal flow of the oils in the strands of hair. It guards against excessive oiliness or dryness giving it life and light.

To heighten that sparkle of clean, white hair there is a preparation on the market which acts like a bluing on white clothes. By bringing out the blue tone, it destroys the objectionable yellow tinge and takes away the dull, drab look. (Don't be alarmed. Your hair will not look blue if the preparation is used according to directions). It is used as a rinse after a shampoo.

There's another preparation which will be still more appreciated by women who linger too long in the salt and pepper state. This liquid, when used with the proper scalp stimulation, helps the hair to whiten quickly and evenly. It will not act on hair which has already grown, but working on the roots will make the new hair grow out more evenly white, not streaked and discolored.

Don't look on grey hair as a disadvantage. Take pride in it and make the most of it. Keep it well groomed and lustrous and you'll find others admiring and envying its beauty. Remember that we add white collars and choose white dresses because white is the most flattering color.

For the names of these hair preparations and places where they may be bought, call Winifred Ware, The Constitution, Walnut 6565, or write, enclosing a self-addressed envelope for reply.

Billie Burke, R. K. O. Radio star, is an example of the charm which an older woman can achieve by careful grooming. Her gown, designed by Edward Stevenson, is flowing, blue-gray chiffon.

Tip-Toeing Helps Leg Beauty

By Ida Jean Kain.

Some fat ladies have frail legs, others possess legs that are not so frail. And some very slim girls have a well-turned calf and ankle. All of this would seem to show it's not weight nearly so much as musculature.

Legs that are too large improve most rapidly with the type of exercise which stretches the muscles. Stand on a large book, with ball of foot on the book and toe on heel. Very slowly lower heels until they are touching the floor. Rise on toes and repeat 20 times. You can do the same exercise on a staircase. Stand in the same position and lower the heels until a strong pull is felt in the calf muscles.

Another good leg stretcher is to sit on the floor with legs straight out in front, reach over and grasp the toes and pull toward you. Rest and repeat 20 times in all.

When the muscles are bunched, massage is the most effective measure. Sit on floor with legs elevated a few inches on footstool or pillows. Work on one leg at a time. Grasp ankle firmly with both hands and, exerting a steady pressure, draw hands up toward knee. If you have massage, get your masseuse to devote about 15 minutes to your legs.

Generally speaking, legs need both contracting and stretching exercise. One of the simplest exercises is to keep on your toes for about 10 minutes a day—kick off your shoes and walk or dance around on tiptoes for that length of time. Walking out of doors in heels that are not too high, swimming and bicycling are all good legwork. And, by the way, bicycling is often recommended for the correction of a knock-kneed appearance. When this is the result of inward rotation of the knees, pedaling strengthens the muscles in the right position so that you hold the kneecaps straight.

War Causes Animal Shortage, Delaying New Tarzan Film

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, April 15.—Charles Boyer may be interested to know that a certain young actor would have snagged a part in his current film "Hold Back the Dawn," but a studio executive ruled, "The boy is too good-looking." This was supposedly to protect Boyer from competition in the picture, which is absurd because the handsome Frenchman can hold his own with any young actor. And, incidentally, the said youth needed the job pretty badly.

Johnny Weissmuller must wait a little longer for his Tarzan film at Metro. The animals used in the previous Tarzans are now on the old side, and the war is making it difficult to replace them with younger, more active duplicates. If they don't hurry up with the sequel they will have to get a new leading man as well. Mr. Weissmuller is not as young either as he used to be.

Ronald Colman made $385,000 on his last profit-sharing film. Colman ought to be one of the richest stars in the business. He has received a top-star salary since 1923. . . . Ida Lupino, who has to scream in every picture, was recently in bed for two weeks with laryngitis—the result of her last screaming session.

Miss Ainsworth and Mr. Glass Marry at Thomasville Rites

THOMASVILLE, Ga., April 15.—Assembling a large gathering of society was the marriage this evening at 6:30 o'clock of Miss Sally Hayes Ainsworth, lovely daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harry Ainsworth, to Richard Crosby Glass, of Birmingham, Ala., son of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Glass, of Atlanta. The nuptials were solemnized at St. Thomas' Episcopal church with Rev. George Shirley officiating. Mrs. Rob Balfour presented a musical program.

The handsome altar of the church was further beautified with large urns filled with graceful arrangements of Easter lilies, interspersed at artistic intervals with cathedral candelabra holding lighted white tapers.

Escorting the guests to their places were Harry Ainsworth, brother of the bride, of Thomasville and New York city; Melvin Schwarz, of Atlanta; Roger Lawson, of Hawkinsville, and William Wallace, of Atlanta and Lynn, Massachusetts.

Mrs. James Lawrence Hoffman, of Thomasville and Gadsden, Ala., was the bride's matron of honor and only attendant. She wore a becoming model of blue chiffon. Her short veil was of matching tulle and she carried a bouquet of spring flowers.

The radiant bride entered with her father, by whom she was given in marriage, and they were met at the altar by the groom and his brother, Dudley Glass Jr., of Shreveport, La., who served as best man. The bride wore her mother's exquisite wedding gown of white satin and antique rose point lace, the full skirt extending into a long train. Her tulle veil was caught to her hair with a wreath of valley lilies. She carried a cascade bouquet of valley lilies and miniature calla lilies.

Immediately following the ceremony Dr. and Mrs. Ainsworth entertained at a small reception at their home. The bridal motif of green and white was carried out in the decorations and the handsomely appointed bride's table was centered with the tiered wedding cake placed on a mound of flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Glass, parents of the groom, of Atlanta, assisted in receiving the guests.

Later in the evening the young couple left for their wedding trip, after which they will reside in Birmingham, Ala., where the bride is manager of the United Press Bureau.

Your Daughter Has a Right to Know

It is every mother's duty to tell her daughter physical facts. How much better that she learn them from you, rather than from girls her own age. In feminine hygiene, facts may be distorted, or wholly untrue. Result, many brides use douches of over-string solutions of acids which can actually burn or scar delicate tissues. Today, there is no need to use such deadly solutions. Science has given us Zonite. Non-poisonous, non-caustic, yet kills germs, bacteria on contact. Actually destroys undesirable odors. Protects personal cleanliness. Most important, safe for delicate tissues. Over 20,000,000 bottles already bought. Free Book Tells Intimate Facts. Give your daughter this frankly written booklet, "Feminine Hygiene Today," which you can get FREE, sent to you postpaid in plain wrapper. Send name and address to Zonite Products Corporation, Dept. 347A 370 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y.

A trio of members of the Ladies' Altar Society of the Sacred Heart church examines the array of handsome prizes to be given today at the benefit bridge party to be held at the Biltmore hotel under the auspices of the society. Left to right are Mrs. John W. Turner, Mrs. Stephens Mitchell and Mrs. R. P. Von Zile. The party begins at 2:30 o'clock and friends of the church are invited.

Rehearsal Parties Are Given For Today's Bridal Couples

Climaxing the brilliant series of parties that have been given in compliment to two of today's popular bridal couples were the buffet suppers given last evening following the rehearsals for their weddings.

Miss Betty Hammond and her fiancé, Ewing Miles, shared honors at that given by Miss Martha Blacklock at her home on Argonne drive.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Blacklock, parents of the hostess; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hammond, parents of the bride-elect, and Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Pugh, uncle and aunt of the hostess, assisted in entertaining.

The bridal motif of green and white was carried out in the decorations throughout the home, and the guests included the members of the bridal party.

The rehearsal supper given by Lieutenant and Mrs. Albert S. Adams Jr. honored their sister, Miss Gladys Marie Commagere.

Peachtree on the Beach

By MAUDE KIMBALL MASSENGALE.

MIAMI BEACH, April 15.—The Bath and Indian Creek clubs closed on Sunday for the season and it was hail and farewell to those who stay. . . . It was simply a friendly get together that took nothing from the beginning of the day.

Mrs. Lindsay Hopkins Jr. is an Atlanta who entertained at luncheon at the Surf club. . . . The rehearsal supper was her mother, Mrs. James Allen Smith, and Mrs. Pat Rogers Kilpatrick, who has been widely feted since coming to visit Mrs. Hopkins. . . . and nobody would ever know from Mrs. Hopkins' youthful appearance that she and Mr. Hopkins were celebrating their ninth wedding anniversary at the dinner dance they gave last week at the Brook club. Among the guests were Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Kilpatrick, Robert Hector, Hank Cooper, Frank Corrigan and the Charles M. Moons. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Moon attended the cocktail party given by Mr. and Mrs. Alberto Santos recently at the Taten Surf club. . . . their last appearance before leaving for a short stay in Atlanta. . . . Atlantans seen at the party were Mr. and Mrs. Spottswood Grant, Mrs. Whitman McGonigal and Mr. and Mrs. John George Simmons. . . . Easter "bunnies" were all over the place and made a symbolic background for the dyed eggs and candies. . . . everything about the party was different, even to the entertainers.

Rafaelo Diaz, former star of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company, who has sung many, many times in Atlanta, was reminiscing on the days of long ago at the cocktail party given recently by Mr. and Mrs. John George Simmons at their charming home on Altamonte road. Diaz is here for an special concert that is being sponsored by socialites in Palm Beach and Miami Beach on April 17, and meanwhile is adding a bit of glamour to the parties hereabouts.

Mrs. C. R. Vaughan and her 15-month-old son, Jimmy, of Decatur, Ala., who are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Wells Jr. on Somerset terrace. Mrs. Vaughan and Mrs. Wells are sisters, and are being extensively entertained during the former's visit.

Poole-Kirk.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Poole announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Elizabeth Poole, to Roger Thomas Kirk, of Athens, Ga. and Quantico, Va., on March 30.

Mr. Kirk is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Kirk, of Athens, and is attached to the Post Service Battalion of the United States Marines at Quantico, Va.

a while before going to New York to make her home.

A frock that society remembers is the one worn by Mrs. Oda Sperl when Mrs. William Francis Whitman's dinner dance. . . . the only other one in existence is a model owned by the Duchess of Windsor and that is a different color. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Howell Ross Hanson and Mrs. Sperl, who departed last week, are favorites in winter society and they made such an impression that everybody who is going north around April 27 has promised to stop in Atlanta for grand opera. . . . Mrs. George A. Wright was talking about it yesterday at a given by Mrs. Hollis' ush at her attractive home on Meridian avenue for members of the past presidents parley of the National Federation of Women's Clubs. . . . Mrs. Sam Murray was among the assistants and she leaves late in the week for Washington and Atlanta.

Up at the Tatem Surf club, Mrs. Walter Beh, of New York, is encoined with her husband and playing two roles, that of hostess and guest. . . . late yesterday she came in for a luncheon at the Surf club and stopped just long enough to tell us that she was flying up to Atlanta for opera and will be the guest of the Clifford Ragsdales. . . . Mrs. Beh is among several hostesses for Mrs. Benjamin R. Anthony (Allyl Massengale) here from Greenville, S. C., for her first visit since her marriage. . . . a former Atlanta, Mrs. Raymond Edwards (Vernon Kimball) was named secretary and treasurer of the children's theater department of the Miami Junior League at Tuesday's meeting. . . . Percival Wilde arrived from his "hideaway" on the west coast for relaxation, a few parties and to await his publisher's verdict on his last book. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Frank Troutman were among the lanterns here for Easter. . . . they are at the Pancoast.

Mrs. Campbell McKenna returned Thursday after a visit in Atlanta. . . . she and Mrs. Whitman McGonigal were among the prominent Atlantans at the Bath club's Easter luncheon.

Miss White Weds Mr. Milner At Brilliant Athens Ceremony

ATHENS, Ga., April 15.—Miss Agnes Rosa White became the lovely bride of Thomas Hamilton Milner Jr. at a fashionable ceremony which was brilliantly solemnized this evening at the First Presbyterian church at 8:30 o'clock with Rev. E. L. Hill, pastor, officiating in the presence of a representative group of friends and relatives.

Woodwardia ferns, massed at the rear of the pulpit, formed a rich backdrop for the lavish decorations of stately white calla lilies and myriad of white tapers burning in cathedral candelabra. Floor standards, topped with candelabra, and festooned with smilax, interspersed the foliage, alternating with sunburst arrangements of calla lilies. The pews reserved for members of the bridal couple's families were marked by tall sheaves of calla lilies.

A musical program was presented by Michael McDowell, organist, and Mrs. Frances White Yow, soloist.

Ushers were C. G. Eckford, Thomas Tillman, Bolling DuBose, Deupree Hunnicutt Jr., all of Athens; Peyton Thompson, Waynesboro, and Sam Hood, Commerce.

The bridesmaids included Miss Ann Wright Fortson, Jacksonville; Miss Barbara Doyle, Bronxville, N. Y.; Miss Sally Page Williams, New York city; Mrs. Crawford Crane, Atlanta; Mrs. H. H. Perry Jr., Atlanta; Miss Haidee Thompson, Waynesboro, and Mrs. Gordon Jones, Atlanta. The maid of honor was Miss Janet DuBose, Athens, and Mrs. F. H. Rahr, Scarsdale, N. Y., was matron of honor.

The bride's attendants wore similar styled marquisette gowns, featuring heart-shaped necklines, puffed val lace sleeves, full skirts and tight bodices. The maid and matron of honor were gowned in shell pink marquisette while the bridesmaids wore turquoise blue marquisette. The attendants carried graceful bouquets of pink carnations and pink freesias, tied with maline.

The junior bridesmaid, Rosa Ashton Rahr, cousin of the bride, wore a blue marquisette costume and carried a colonial bouquet of pink flowers.

H. H. Perry Jr., of Atlanta, and Mr. Milner's brother, and groomsmen were Edmond Landau, Jerome Hoffmayer, Charles Griffin, Dermot Shemwell, all of Albany; George Spence, Atlanta; Deupree Hunnicutt Jr., Oakland, Edwidge, Athens, and F. H. Rahr, Scarsdale, N. Y. James Jefferson White, brother of the bride, was junior groomsmen.

The petite, blonde bride, entering with her father, James White Jr., was gowned in a becoming brilliant gown of white net fashioned with a heart-shaped neckline, leg o' mutton sleeves, tight bodice and full skirt. Her veil, belonging to her cousin, Mrs. F. H. Rahr, and brought from Brussels, Belgium, was made of rose point lace and tulle and extended to cover her long tulle train. The coronet, also of rose point lace, was purchased by her grandmother, Mrs. James White Sr., who gave it to the bride on the day of her birth. Completing the bridal ensemble was a bouquet of white spray orchids and lilies of the valley caught with maline.

Mrs. Agnes Hood White, mother of the bride, was modestly gowned in a white marquisette, featuring a square neckline, bracelet length sleeves and a full skirt. She wore a cluster of purple orchids.

Mrs. Thomas Milner, of Albany, chose for her son's marriage a hyacinth blue chiffon gown with a V neckline, brief puffed sleeves and a full skirt inset with matching lace. Her flowers were purple orchids.

Mrs. James White Jr. was lovely in a white marquisette gown embroidered in ivy leaf design and cut with a tight bodice and full skirt. Her flowers were a shoulder spray of white orchids.

A brilliant reception, given by Mr. and Mrs. James White Jr., was held at the home of Mrs. W. F. Bradshaw on Prince avenue, immediately following the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Milner left by motor on their wedding trip. Mrs. Milner chose for traveling a stunning green and beige printed crepe, which she wore with a light-weight beige wool coat and a scarf of sables. Her shoes and bag were alligator green and her hat was made of beige wool trimmed in print. A green orchid completed her costume. Upon their return the couple will reside at 2554 Peachtree road, Atlanta.

Out-of-town guests present were Mrs. W. F. Spaulding, Atlanta; Mrs. Judson McElmurray, Mrs. Peyton Thompson, Miss Florence Thompson, all of Waynesboro; Mrs. Dermot Shemwell, Albany; Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Hood and Mrs. Sam Hood, of Commerce; Judge Charles S. Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hamilton, Dr. and Mrs. W. O. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Bolling Jones Jr., Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Tift, Judge and Mrs. Hugh McIntyre, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hatcher, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Dulaney, all of Atlanta, and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Burns, of Murfreesboro, Tenn.

Christening Held At Robinson Home

Little Harry English Robinson Jr., small son of Mr. and Mrs. English Robinson, was christened Sunday morning at the home of his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James D. Robinson Sr., on Ponce de Leon avenue. Dr. William V. Gardner, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiated in the presence of the immediate families.

The baby's christening suit of white linen was trimmed with tiny tucks on the collar, which was also edged with lace, and on the cuffs. The waist was fastened with small pearl buttons in the shape of birds.

The baby's mother is the former Miss Ermine Cater, and his maternal grandparents are Mrs. John M. Cater and the late Mr. Cater, of Augusta. He will celebrate his second birthday anniversary in May.

Woman's Club Plans Meeting Today.

The Atlanta Woman's Club announces a program meeting for the cancer drive today at 2:30 o'clock.

Mrs. J. O. Wilson, welfare chairman, has appointed Mrs. George Brown as chairman of the cancer drive for the club. She will be assisted by Mrs. A. P. Treadwell, Mrs. Ralph M. Tate, Mrs. George Stanley and Mrs. W. Clyde Turner.

Dr. Calvin Stewart will speak on "Cancer and Its Control." Mrs. Howard Pattillo, president of the club, and Mrs. Chester Martin, president of Fifth District Federated Clubs, request members of the Fifth District to be present, and the public is invited.

Social Affairs Are Planned For Lord and Lady Halifax

April 25 will be a day of special importance in cultural and social circles for the British ambassador, Lord Halifax, and Lady Halifax, who will arrive in the city of Atlanta on that date. Lord and Lady Halifax will come to Atlanta directly from Washington, and during their stay they will be encoined at the Henry Grady hotel.

Luncheon, a tea and a dinner have been planned for the distinguished visitors. Lady Halifax will be central figure at a luncheon to be given at Riverby, the residence of Mrs. Rhodes Perdue, the hostesses to include wives of members of the executive committee of the Atlanta Bar Association, of which Philip Alston Sr. is the president. A group of members of the British War Relief Society will be among special guests. At the same hour Lord Halifax will be honored at a luncheon to be given by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce. In the afternoon the British visitors will be honored at a tea to be given between 5 and 6 o'clock at the Henry Grady hotel. The organization serving as hosts at the affair will include the Y. W. C. A., Mrs. Howard See, president; Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, M. E. Kilpatrick, chairman; English Speaking Union, Dr. Ashby Jones, president; British War Relief Society, Mrs. Albert E. Thornton, chairman, and American Red Cross, Dr. Frank Boland, chairman.

On Friday evening Lord and Lady Halifax will be honored at a dinner at the Piedmont Driving Club, at which time Lord Halifax will speak. Among the guests will be Senator Walter F. George and Mrs. George. A reception will follow the dinner. The guests will be limited to members of the bar association, their wives and a limited number of friends.

Delta Theta Chi To Install New Chapter This Evening

The installation of Georgia Beta Chapter of Delta Theta Chi sorority will be held this evening in the bamboo room of the Hotel Atlantan following a formal dinner.

Miss Louise Beebe, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, member of the national council, will conduct the ceremony, assisted by the field secretaries, Misses Doris LaPorte, Sac City, Iowa, and Elizabeth Wann, Scottsboro, Ala.

Tables will be arranged in the Greek Delta formation and decorated with the sorority colors of green and gold. During the ceremony Miss Beebe will sing "The Sister Song," accompanied on the piano by Miss Agnes Clinkscales.

The program centers around art, music, literature and sorority development. Georgia Alpha chapter is in Macon.

Georgia Beta will become a part of the Meropoe province. The spring province convention will be held April 19 and 20 at Baltimore, Md.

Officers for the local chapter will be appointed and installed this evening by the national officers. The meetings will be held bimonthly.

Charter members present will include Misses Betty Bagby, Marian Carmichael, Norma Clinkscales, Agnes Clinkscales, Mrs. E. R. Gooch, Jr., Mrs. R. C. Cohen, Misses Louise Beebe, Jean Hay, Mrs. P. R. Hickman, Misses Ellen Holder, Maybelle Johns, Helen Kilgore, Evelyn King, Mary Phillips, Mrs. R. K. Jones, Clara Walker, Evelyn Wright and Margaret Vaughn.

Notable Guests Given Breakfast

The Georgia Woman's Democratic Club entertained Saturday at a breakfast honoring Senator and Mrs. Walter F. George, Senator Richard B. Russell, Congressman and Mrs. Robert Ramspeck, as a gesture of interest in the national defense program.

Mayor Roy LeCraw welcomed the guests in behalf of the city. Other honor guests were United States District Attorney Lawrence S. Camp, Clark Howell, Oscar J. Coe, John Paschall, Homer C. Parker, Chief Justice Charles Reid, Miss Emily Woodward, Pierre Howard, Wiley Moore and State Senator S. T. Moore.

Parties Continue For Bridal Pair

Miss Rosemary Wrigley, fiancée of C. G. Aycock Jr., continues to be honored at parties.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ulrich will give a bridge party for the bride-elect and her fiancée on April 19 at their home on Ivy road.

On April 20, Misses Katherine McKie and Kate Godfrey will be co-hostesses at a breakfast for the future bride at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

On April 23, Mrs. Sam Meyer will entertain at her home on Peachtree road at a bridge-party for the bride-elect.

On April 25, the engaged pair will share honors at a dinner party to be given by John McGill and Paul Johnson at the Marietta Country Club. April 26 is the date chosen by five of Mr. Aycock's attendants for the stag party at which they will honor him.

On April 25, Mrs. Nedom L. Angier will entertain at her home on Tenth street at a luncheon for the future bride.

Maple Grove Plans Bingo Party

Maple Grove No. 86, Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle, will entertain members and friends at a bingo party in the club rooms, 160 Central avenue, on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Mesdames Emma Brooks and Louise Baumgras will be co-hostesses.

Mrs. Verna Storms feted the Loyalty Club of the Grove recently in her home, 1122 Pelham road. The morning was devoted to sewing and after luncheon, a business session was presided over by Mrs. Gladys Joyner.

An Easter party honoring the Officers Club of the circle was held in the home of Mrs. Louise Baumgras, 1122 Pelham road, with Mrs. Neljo Hunton serving as co-hostess with Mrs. Baumgras.

Announcement was made concerning the recent statewide contest on "Why I Love America" in which the paper of John Gossett won second state prize and first county prize in addition to a cash award by the American Legion. John Gossett is the son of Mrs. Mae Gossett, Grove musician.

A buffet supper was served by the hostesses.

Writers' Club Will Observe Founders' Day on Thursday

The Atlanta Writers' Club will observe Founders' Day Thursday evening at 7 o'clock, in the banquet hall of the Atlanta Woman's Club, Dr. W. F. Melton presiding.

The Writers' Club was founded 29 years ago, April 20. At the dinner, Thursday evening, a communication will be read from Miss Helen Peters, whose mother, Mrs. Thomas Peters, originated the idea of a writers' club for Atlanta. Mrs. Charles P. King, whose mother, Mrs. Lollie Belle Wylie, was first president of the organization, will tell of her mother's interest in Atlanta and Georgia writers. Among the charter members of the original club, the following will be present to speak on the initial activities of the club: Mrs. Gordon Mitchell, Miss Nan Stephens, Mrs. George Rago and Miss Louise Donly.

Colonel Walter McInerney will tell of the reorganization of the club in 1923, under the presidency of Dudley Cowles, now president of D. C. Heath Publishing Company, in Boston. President Thornwell Jacobs, of Oglethorpe University, will represent Ernest Hartsock, who was president of the club in 1930. Dr. Jacobs will also tell of the literary activities of Harry E. Harman Sr., a charter member of the original Writers' Club.

Former presidents of the club, Daniel Whitehead Hickey, Lida Wilson Turner, and Dr. Anderson M. Scruggs, will tell of their administrations, and Christine Park Hankinson will speak on "Atlanta As a Literary Center." Eugenia Snow, pianist, will give the musical program.

Members of other literary organizations and those interested in writing and in the literary history of Atlanta are invited. For reservations, call Mrs. Paul Ackland, or the Atlanta Woman's Club.

Miss West Weds Herbert Bridges

Miss Wilma Constance West, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. West Sr., became the bride of Herbert Bridges, son of Mrs. Mamie Bridges and the late E. L. Bridges, at an impressive ceremony taking place Saturday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the First Baptist church in East Point. Rev. W. A. Duncan performed the marriage in the presence of an assemblage of friends and relatives of the young couple.

Pedestal baskets filled with Easter lilies and white snapdragons were placed against a background of palms and ferns to form the altar decorations. Cathedral candelabra holding lighted white tapers flanked the floral arrangements. Charles Carden Snow, organist, presented a musical program.

Acting as groomsmen were Forrest W. West, James W. West Jr., Clinton C. West and Ernest H. West. Earle S. Newman, of Cincinnati, Ohio, was best man for Mr. Bridges.

Mrs. George B. Parker, who was her sister's matron of honor, was gown in a powder blue taffeta model fashioned with a bouffant skirt and snug-fitting bodice, which featured a sweetheart neckline and short puffed sleeves. The groom's sister, Miss Agnes Chaffin; Miss Frances Grier and Mrs. W. F. Braswell, the bride's sister, were the bridesmaids. Their gowns were shell pink taffeta styled like the matron of honor's and they carried nosegays of roses and sweet peas tied with blue satin ribbon and wore bandeaux in their hair.

Bebe Lois Cox, the junior bridesmaid, wore a blue taffeta dress and Barbara Jane West, the flower girl, wore a shell pink taffeta dress, both dresses being similar to the other attendants.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore for her wedding a beautiful white slipper gown fashioned with a full graceful skirt, snug-fitting bodice featuring a sweetheart neckline and short puffed sleeves. Her veil of white silk net was caught to her hair by a coronet of orange blossoms and valley lilies. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls, which belong to her sister, Mrs. W. F. Braswell, carrying out the traditional "something borrowed." She carried a bouquet of calla lilies tied with white satin ribbon.

After the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a reception at their home on North Semmes street in East Point.

Mrs. West chose for her daughter's wedding a rose lace gown accented by a shoulder cluster of gardenias.

Assisting in entertaining were Mesdames W. Leon West, West, W. West Jr., Clinton C. West, Walter L. Cox and William C. West. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. Bowls filled with Easter lilies graced either end of the table.

Mr. Bridges and his wife left during the evening for a wedding trip to Florida. Mrs. Bridges donned for traveling a three-piece rose beige wool suit trimmed with a white fox collar and worn with matching accessories. A spray of sweetheart roses and valley lilies adorned her shoulder. Upon their return they will reside here.

Among out-of-town guests who attended the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fondren Braswell, of Richmond, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Eberhardt, Carlton; Tom Breedlove, Monroe; Miss Sarah Eddie Bridges, Marietta; Earle S. Newman, Cincinnati, Ohio; Dr. and Mrs. W. K. K. Dix, Richmond, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Harry O. Granger, Philadelphia, Pa.; William H. Bridges, Moapa, Nev.

SHE LOVED A SPY

Karl Finds the Papers Are Changed; Thomas' Gun Leads to Their Escape

By Sylvia Taylor

SYNOPSIS. Joan Leland loses her secretarial job when Arthur Mulford, San Francisco importer, quits business. She answers an ad and Karl Miller hires her at a North Beach night club. This handsome, powerfully built man with a slight foreign accent fascinates her. When Karl kissing Joan he warns her Karl will never marry her but soon Karl makes her very happy by proposing. Her older sister, Sybil, wants her to quit her job and go to Europe with Karl. Karl accuses her of the murder. He admits he's a spy, says Eric tried to double-cross him, warns Joan not to notify the police, says he has a wife in Germany, and that Joan will be closely guarded. At home she finds a note from Sybil: "Something terrible has happened." Mrs. Mulford says she had to let Sybil go for incompetency and then she threatened suicide. But Paul, who confides in Joan, tells her that O'Malley, a FBI man, is sure Karl is holding Sybil. Through Karl's help, Paul and Joan find a short-wave radio transmitter and stolen plans of a bomber. Meanwhile Karl has proposed to Pat and learned Paul's identity. He surprises Paul and Joan and forces them aboard a freighter.

INSALLMENT XXX.

"It's all the better for us if we don't go for awhile."

She did not attempt to understand. Instead she said, "I wonder where Sybil is . . . and Pat. What has happened to her?"

"There are times," Paul said unhappily, "when my job seems to involve a lot of personal sacrifice. Leaving Pat as I did was one of them. Having you here is another."

"But Pat and I became involved with Karl in spite of you," Joan reminded him. "You did everything you could under the circumstances."

"I thought you would be safer with me than left behind at the mercy of Karl's henchmen. You knew too much for them to let you escape. But I am beginning to wonder what fate would have been worse."

Your judgment is good enough for me," she comforted. "And I wouldn't want to be away from you. Whatever happens, we'll be together now. And Pat will be all right. You said yourself that they wouldn't harm her."

"Not harm her, but she'll be sure to go to the police when we don't return and they will have to prevent that. Probably Mrs. Muldock will take care of that little detail, all of which doesn't exactly put my mind at rest."

"They were both silent. It did not seem that any solution could be found by discussion. The less they thought about it, the better. The future was so uncertain she forced her mind away from it, but the past held small comfort, and the present was even less pleasant."

"If something would only happen," she cried. "This waiting is getting me. Why doesn't Karl come?"

"He's probably eating his dinner," Paul said practically. Joan could picture Karl calmly eating his meal bent on some new plot. Nothing bothered Karl. He had no real emotions. His display of affection for her had been completely artificial. Anyone but the inexperienced girl she was would have seen through it. Love was an amusing pastime to Karl, a game he played in his spare moments, but when it interfered with "business" he sacrificed other people's hearts with a carelessness which roused her fury even to remember.

Thomas stood patiently outside. The rain on his slicker gleamed in the darkness.

"I think he's more worried than we are," Paul commented.

"That's the first time I've ever heard you admit you were worried."

"I'm only human, honey, and Karl's a tough customer."

"To think," Joan said, "that all this trouble happened just because I answered a want ad for a job."

"It really goes back farther than that," Paul reminded her. "Arthur Mulford fired you or you wouldn't have been out for a job."

"Sybil told me from the first there was something wrong with the job, with Karl, too, but I wouldn't listen."

"So Mulford is the cause of all your misfortunes," Paul mused. "Wouldn't he be surprised if he knew it?"

She smiled. "Well, life was certainly calm and quiet when I worked for him. I used to wish that something would happen, anything exciting, and it did. So I really have no right to complain. Besides, I met you. Paul. That makes all the rest worth while."

Paul took her in his arms and kissed her on the forehead. "I wanted you to say that, dear. Sometimes I feel like a heel to even ask you to marry me. It doesn't seem fair to expect you to share this crazy life of mine. It's all ups and downs and excitement—never knowing what's going to happen next."

"I wouldn't change it, or you," Joan whispered. "All I want is to share it with you."

Thomas' shuffling footsteps came suddenly to their ears; also a hard tread ascending the stairs.

"It's Karl!" Joan cried.

She had scarcely uttered the words when Karl Miller's powerful figure loomed in the doorway. He held a pistol.

Paul and Joan faced him silently. Behind his back Joan saw the terrified eyes of Thomas.

"You amaze me, Mr. O'Malley," Karl said coolly. "A man in the government service should be more clever than you have been."

"Meaning what?" Paul inquired with assumed indifference.

"Do you really think me so stupid?" Karl smiled. "Do you think I would hand over important papers without checking them first?"

"Sorry to disrupt your little plan. You could see for yourself that they are quite worthless now."

"Quite," Karl said coolly. "But I feel that your government would have preferred to lose the plans and have you alive."

"No," Joan screamed, sensing his meaning.

"Shut up! I will deal with you later. Perhaps you will learn that death is preferable to some things."

"If you imagine that I am afraid to die, you are wrong," Paul said calmly. "To die for a purpose like this could almost be called a pleasure."

Joan wondered how he could talk like that at a time like this, but Karl had a faint glimmer of approval in his cold eyes. "I admire your courage, Mr. O'Malley. Too bad that you fight on the wrong side. If you had joined with me, we might have gone far together."

His hand raised the pistol, his finger was pressed against the trigger.

Joan saw Thomas motion to her and she knew instantly what she must do. She snatched the gun from her pocket and fired it directly at Karl Miller. With an expression of complete incredulity, he crumpled to the floor.

The gun fell from Joan's hand as she stared with unseeing eyes before her. "I've killed him," she whispered.

Paul's arm was about her. "Don't think about it. We're getting out of here."

Thomas took a timid step forward. "It served him right," he declared with satisfaction. "He deserved it."

"Where did she get that gun?" Paul demanded.

"I gave it to her," Joan repeated.

"I've killed him," Joan repeated.

Paul motioned to Thomas and together they helped her from the cabin. Outside—complete darkness, a slight wind and the misty rain.

"Do you think you can get those papers from the safe?" Paul asked Thomas. "I'll wait here with Joan."

Thomas looked fearfully over his shoulder.

"There's nothing to be afraid of now," Paul said. "Go quickly before the others find out what has happened."

Paul and Joan waited under the narrow ledge of canvas. Large drops of rain splattered down on the deck. Joan clung to Paul's arm unable to speak. "It won't be long now, honey," he said. "Try to bear up just a little while longer."

Thomas returned almost instantly with the papers and handed them to Paul. "I didn't see anyone," he reported. "This all seems too easy."

"Never mind that," Paul said. "Do you think we can lower a boat?"

"Sure. But we'll have to go down to the boat deck and one of them will see us. They all know what's what. They'd shoot us down like Karl would have. We haven't a chance of getting off this boat."

"There's no time to argue," Paul insisted. "I know what I'm doing. Now let's go!"

As they descended the stairs there was no one in sight. The boat used to take the officers back to the submarine was still in the water.

"What luck!" Thomas said.

"Not luck," Paul replied. "It's there for a purpose. You go down first and I'll help Joan."

Thomas disappeared over the side.

"Do you think you can make it, honey?" Paul asked Joan, looking anxiously into her white face. "I'll go first and you follow me."

Tremulously Joan obeyed. The ladder swayed with her weight and the rope scraped her hands as she grasped it fiercely. Step by step she went down until at last she felt Paul's arms lifting her to safety.

AT THE THEATRE, ANDY FELT THE PRESENCE! HE TURNED JUST IN TIME TO SEE IT DISAPPEAR THROUGH A CURTAIN IN AN UPPER BOX——AND AT THE MOVIES, HE SAW A STREET SCENE THERE, IN THE VERY CENTER OF THE CROWD, WAS THAT FACE! IT PAUSED FOR A MOMENT, SCANNED THE AUDIENCE AND SINGLED OUT ANDY—GAVE A SHUDDER—AND DISAPPEARED!

ADJUSTING HIS TIE IN A SHOP WINDOW, HE LOOKED OVER HIS SHOULDER AND SAW HER—WHEN HE TURNED, SHE VANISHED!
